Boundaries in Medieval Romance Neil Cartlidge, 2008 Medieval romance frequently and perhaps characteristically capitalises on the dramatic and suggestive possibilities implicit in boundaries not only the geographical political and cultural frontiers that medieval romances imagine and imply but also more metaphorical demarcations It is these boundaries as they appear in insular romances circulating in English and French which the essays in this volume address They include the boundary between reality and fictionality boundaries between different literary traditions modes and cultures and boundaries between different kinds of experience or perception especially the altered states associated with sickness magic the supernatural or the divine Middle English Romances, 1968 Medieval Insular Romance Judith Elizabeth Weiss, Jennifer Fellows, Morgan Dickson, 2000 Major themes explored are narratives of the disguised prince and the reinvention of stories for different tastes and periods These studies cover a wide chronological range and familiar and unfamiliar texts and topics The disguised prince is a theme linking several articles from early Anglo Norman romances through later English ones like King Edward and the Shepherd to a late 16th century recasting of the Havelok story as a Tudor celebration of Gloriana Translation in its widest sense the way romance can reinvent stories for different tastes and periods is another running theme the opening introductory article considers the topic of translation theoretically concerned to stimulate further research on how insular romances were transferred between vernaculars and literary systems while other essays consider Lovelich's Merlin a poem translating its Arthurian material to the poet's contemporary London milieu Chaucer and Breton lays in England Contributors JUDITH WEISS IVANA DJORDJEVIC ROSALIND FIELD MORGAN DICKSON ELIZABETH ARCHIBALD AMANDA HOPKINS ARLYN DIAMOND PAUL PRICE W A DAVENPORT RACHEL SNELL ROGER DALRYMPLE HELEN COOPER Selected studies Romance in Medieval England conference Anglicising Romance Rhiannon Purdie, 2008 A reappraisal of the tail rhyme form so strongly associated with medieval English romance Tail rhyme romance units a French genre with a continental stanza form so why was it only developed in Middle English literature This volume seeks to explain why and how the tail rhyme form established itself in medieval English romantic verse English Medieval Romance William Raymond Johnston Barron, 1987 Studie over de Engelse roman in de Middeleeuwen Readings in Medieval English Romance Carol M. Convention and the Individual in Medieval English Romance Lucy Brookes, 2025-04 Offers a nuanced reading of character and subjectivity in medieval romance via an exploration of its conventions Medieval romances can be characterised by their formulaic motifs predictable plots and stock figures and character types This book offers a fresh perspective on these conventions arguing that authors used them and the expectations they generate as a form of shorthand to interiority Understanding romance conventions in this way reveals that romance characters complex and often contradictory inner lives are made available precisely through the genre's narrative structures shapes and norms Drawing upon recent work in the History of Emotions and Affect Theory the author explores character and subjectivity in a variety of English romance texts from 1100 to 1500 such as Amis and Amiloun Le Bone Florence of Rome The Squire of Low Degree Sir Orfeo Sir Gawain and the Green Knight and Malory's Le Morte Darthur Through new readings of these texts the book demonstrates the contribution made by romance to the growing significance of the individual in fiction after the twelfth century by paying particular attention to the ways in which convention expectation and genre intersect with character formation and the representation of identity
