Peter Temple,2012-01-09 This book is a simple practical guide to how you can use some of the newer investment products like spread betting binary betting contracts for difference covered warrants and exchange traded funds as well as older ones like futures and options to help your investing In different ways each of these products allows you either to boost the returns you get in exchange for taking on greater risk hedge your bets in exchange for slightly lower returns use much less capital to achieve the same market exposure or move money into and out of a range of markets and sectors efficiently The author believes they are tools that all investors need to know about and be able to use when the occasion demands it They should help you successfully confront any lengthy period of trendless or volatile markets While the past three years has seen a generally strong upward trend in stock markets this is not bound to continue Periodic volatility is the natural order of things Interestingly enough despite what appears to have been a bull market recent years have also seen increased use by private investors of many of the tools described in this book Proof if needed that they work and can be applied in all market conditions

Constructing the International Economy Rawi Abdelal, Mark Blyth, Craig Parsons, 2015-10-27 Focusing empirically on how political and economic forces are always mediated and interpreted by agents both in individual countries and in the international sphere Constructing the International Economy sets out what such constructions and what various forms of constructivism mean both as ways of understanding the world and as sets of varying methods for achieving that understanding It rejects the assumption that material interests either linearly or simply determine economic outcomes and demands that analysts consider as a plausible hypothesis that economies might vary substantially for nonmaterial reasons that affect both institutions and agents interests Constructing the International Economy portrays the diversity of models and approaches that exist among constructivists writing on the international political economy The authors outline and relate several different arguments for why scholars might attend to social construction inviting the widest possible array of scholars to engage with such approaches They examine points of terminological or theoretical confusion that create unnecessary barriers to engagement between constructivists and nonconstructivist work and among different types of constructivism This book provides a tool kit that both constructivists and their critics can use to debate how much and when social construction matters in this deeply important realm Contributors Rawi Abdelal Harvard Business School Jacqueline Best University of Ottawa Mark Blyth Brown University Mlada Bukovansky Smith College Jeffrey M Chwieroth London School of Economics Francesco Duina Bates College Charlotte Epstein University of Sydney Yoshiko M Herrera University of Wisconsin Madison Paul Langley Northumbria University Craig Parsons University of Oregon Catherine Weaver University of Texas at Austin Wesley W Widmaier Saint Joseph's University Cornelia Woll CERI Sciences Po Paris
