My Home In Hong Kong:

Coming Home? Lynellyn D. Long, Ellen Oxfeld, 2017-06-16 Few things weigh on the human spirit more heavily than a sense of place the lands we live in and return to have a profound ability to shape our notions of home and homeland not to mention our own identities The pull of the familiar and the desire to begin anew are conflicting impulses for the nearly 180 million people who live outside their countries of origin often with the expectation of returning home Of 30 million people who immigrated to the United States alone between 1900 and 1980 10 million are believed to have returned to their homelands While migration flows occur in both directions surprisingly few studies of transnationalism global migration or diaspora address return experiences Undertaking a comparative analysis of how coming home affects individuals and their communities in a myriad cultural and geographic settings the contributors to this volume seek to understand the unique return migration experiences of refugees migrants and various others as they confront the social pressures and a sense of displacement that accompany their journeys The returns depicted in Coming Home range from temporary visits to permanent repatriation from voluntary to coerced movements and from those occurring after a few years of exile to those after several decades away The geographic sites include the Balkans Barbados China Eritrea Ethiopia Germany Nicaragua the Philippines Rwanda and Vietnam Several studies portray the experiences of returning refugees who earlier fled war and violence while others focus on economic or labor migrants As the essays show connections between permanent returnees and home communities are contentious and complex On the one hand issues of land title property rights political orientation and religious and cultural beliefs and practices create grounds for clashes between returnees and their home communities but on the other returnees bring with them a unique ability to transform local practices and provide new resources Chinese

Transnational Networks Chee-Beng Tan, 2006-10-19 The Chinese overseas have long been relevant to China especially to qiaoxiang and vice versa Qiaoxiang refers to regions from where emigrants migrated overseas where there are therefore ties with Chinese communities overseas Unlike most other works which cover either China or the Chinese overseas this book examines both China and the Chinese overseas in relation to qiaoxiang With clearly presented chapters that examine the ancestral homeland Chinese overseas China and transnational networks and the diversity of settlements and homelands the expert team of international contributors of Chinese Transnational Networks have created a volume which will be essential reading for students and scholars of migrations studies Chinese diaspora and Chinese culture and society My Name is Sam S Kelly, 2020-02-13 Twenty five OMG A quarter century already A thousand experiences but only a continuous blur like two passing trains when recalled One thing my parents learned from when I started to talk until I started school was that I talked and talked and held nothing back I fought I screamed I entertained I conversed I engaged and I was beguiling I was different and I knew it I was a gift from God and a star and it all came naturally My next twenty five years will build on the bedrock of my formative years I will be able to look back on them whether as wife mother grandmother and definitely as one of the twenty must know people in Hong Kong and see how these early events and experiences shape the person I will ultimately become _____ If sixty plus years is not enough to live our dreams and become how can twenty five years be How do you deal with the very tangible yet mystical appearance of death into a young life What was the sum total of Samantha s short life packed up into A vast trove of memories contrived from various footprints Facebook posts photos and mainly my own memories and those of her myriad friends all over the world Samantha constantly reminds me to squeeze every possible minute from the life I have yet to live It struck me when I commenced this work I knew far too little of my girl but along the way with the revelations of others I have come to know her a little better and to love her even a little more

Hong Kong's New Indie Cinema Ruby Cheung,2023-06-26 This book explores 2010s Hong Kong film industry focusing on its presumably independent sector Although frequently mentioned in global film industry studies the term independent film does not always carry a clear meaning Starting with this point this book studies closely Hong Kong s new indie cinema of the 2010s from political economic social cultural and film industrial perspectives arguing that this indie cinema was vital to the long term sustainability of the city s film industry

From Harlem to Viet Nam and Back Enoch Buckery, 2016-06-18 At the time I was a twenty year old wholesome part time business administration student of six credits at City University of New York and also employed at the American Iron and Steel Institute as a sales expeditor when my draft notice came from the U S Army Twelve credits were necessary for a student's full deferment from the United States Military Draft I was also newly married at the time but I was mandated to report to Whitehall Street for induction Three other draftees were also chosen with me and we were directed to a separate room and given a test Upon completion of the test we were then sworn in and congratulated however we were welcomed into the United States Marine Corps instead of the Army The following morning we reported to Paris Island South Carolina for boot camp training and then on to chemical and jungle training at Camp Lejune North Carolina I was allowed a brief visit back home in New York before my transfer to the Marine Corps based at Camp Pendleton California for advanced jungle training where I received west pack orders in route to Viet Nam The most feared orders a soldier could receive at the time were west pack orders because that meant the soldier was headed to Viet Nam Upon entering the Republic of Viet Nam shortly after the Marine Corps boot camp training at Paris Island's extensive jungle training at Camp Pendleton California our orientation left us Marines with a somewhat superior mental complex that trained us to look down on the Viet Nameese people whether military or civilian We were instructed to call them Gooks which is equivalent to calling an African American the N word So we called them Gooks or Charlie as we entered combat with the Viet Cong people However after the many humbling eye opening experiences in combat those of us who remained alive elevated the name Charlie to Mr Charlie out of a much deserved and commanded respect towards the Viet Nameese people Unlike anything

written thus far on combat experiences in Viet Nam you will travel side by side with me Enoch Buckery with this book from the vantage point of my personal African American combat experience You will experience my journey from high school to one year of college to military training and then on to real combat I was a Marine Corps grunt machine gunner then a machine gun team leader and then promoted to the position of machine gun section leader I present my accounts of the combat operations ambushes and fire fights in this book So many books have been written and so many stories have been told yet this is my personal Marine Corps combat experience in that Republic I still believe that the real truth has not been fully told especially by an African American who has fought in Americas war in the Republic of Viet Nam I fought on the front line daily days as well as nights Back in the sometimes oblivious realm of the United States of America oblivious to the war s on the ground harsh and devastating realities for the soldiers and the Viet Nameese people I assumed the position of an advocate and an activist for combat wounded Marines and other combat veterans for now more than thirty years I have witnessed the death of so many veterans who survived the battlegrounds of Viet Nam only to succumb to deaths due to side effects of prescribed medications or misdiagnoses or lack of much needed support One major conspiracy faced by so many Viet Nam veterans was and still is related to the treatments for exposure to dioxin better known as Agent Orange for American frontline combat veterans of America s war in that country I Enoch Buckery am one of those veterans
