Excerpt from My Life With the Eskimo But what led most definitely to the planning of my second expedition was that I learned that to the eastward of Cape Bathurst the Mackenzie Eskimo were unaware of the existence of any people The coast of Dolphin and Union Straits had been mapped by Dr John Richardson in 1826 but he had seen none of its inhabitants My knowledge of the habits of the Eskimo led me to suspect that his finding no people was in itself no proof of the non existence of people on this portion of the mainland for he had skirted the coast in summer when the natives were likely to be inland caribou hunting Further the English explorers had seen Eskimo on Coronation Gulf and on Victoria Island in the first half of the eighteenth century and these people had not been visited since It would be interesting to revisit them after sixty years At Herschel Island I happened to meet Captain Amundsen on his way west from his now famous voyage of the Northwest Passage and I found that he also had sailed past these shores without seeing any people and in fact without opportunity of seeing any About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works My Life with the Eskimo, Etc.
