The Oxford Handbook of the Prehistoric Arctic T. Max Friesen, Owen K. Mason, 2016-08-05 The North American Arctic was one of the last regions on Earth to be settled by humans due to its extreme climate limited range of resources and remoteness from populated areas Despite these factors it holds a complex and lengthy history relating to Inuit Iupiat Inuvialuit Yupik and Aleut peoples and their ancestors The artifacts dwellings and food remains of these ancient peoples are remarkably well preserved due to cold temperatures and permafrost allowing archaeologists to reconstruct their lifeways with great accuracy Furthermore the combination of modern Elders traditional knowledge with the region's high resolution ethnographic record allows past peoples lives to be reconstructed to a level simply not possible elsewhere Combined these factors yield an archaeological record of global significance the Arctic provides ideal case studies relating to issues as diverse as the impacts of climate change on human societies the complex process of interaction between indigenous peoples and Europeans and the dynamic relationships between environment economy social organization and ideology in hunter gatherer societies In the The Oxford Handbook of the Prehistoric Arctic each arctic cultural tradition is described in detail with up to date coverage of recent interpretations of all aspects of their lifeways Additional chapters cover broad themes applicable to the full range of arctic cultures such as trade stone tool technology ancient DNA research and the relationship between archaeology and modern arctic communities The resulting volume written by the region's leading researchers contains by far the most comprehensive coverage of arctic archaeology ever assembled

Our Voices James Ruppert, John W. Bernet, 2001-01-01 Storytelling is a precious vibrant tradition among the Native peoples of the Far North Collected here for the first time are stories from the communities of interior Alaska and the Yukon Territory These are the tales the people tell about themselves their communities and the world they inhabit Our Voices showcases twenty storytellers and writers who represent a full range of Athabaskan and related languages of Alaska and the Yukon Both men and women recount popular tales of ancient times that describe the origins of social institutions and cultural values as well as meaningful sometimes intimate stories about their own lives and families or the history of their people As representatives of an art transmitted through countless generations and now practiced with renewed interest and vigor by people reclaiming their cultural heritage these narratives create a broad brightly colored richly detailed picture of the world of the Far North present and past Landscapes Beyond Land Arnar Árnason, 2012-09-15 Land is embedded in a multitude of material and cultural contexts through which the human experience of landscape emerges Ethnographers with their participative methodologies long term co residence and concern with the quotidian aspects of the places where they work are well positioned to describe landscapes in this fullest of senses The contributors explore how landscapes become known primarily through movement and journeying rather than stasis Working across four continents they explain how landscapes are constituted and recollected in the stories people tell of their journeys through them and how in turn these stories are embedded in landscaped forms

Haa Shuká, Our Ancestors Nora Dauenhauer, Richard Dauenhauer, 1987 Recorded from the 1960s to the present by twelve tradition bearers who were passing down for future generations the accounts of haa shuka which means our ancestors Narratives tell of the origin of social and spiritual concepts and explain complex relationships Text in Tlingit with English translation on the opposite page Includes biographies of the narrators Also extensive introduction and notes
