Ethics and Process in the Narrative Study of Lives Ruthellen Josselson, 1996-03-14 In taking up the topic of ethics and narrative inquiry The Narrative Study of Lives rightfully establishes itself as the site where the most critical theoretical methodological and interpretive work on narrative in the human disciplines is now occurring The editor and the contributors to this volume are to be thanked for their deeply probing forward looking analyses of the ethical problems that arise when researchers produce narratives about persons with whom close personal relationships have been formed Norman K Denzin University of Illinois Urbana Champaign All of us who work with life history narratives are grateful to Dr Josselson and her colleagues for moving us step by step toward a discipline with definable ethics and methodology and at the same time holding up for us the incredible diversity of the field and the range of insights it offers Mary Catherine Bateson author of Peripheral Visions The most significant truths about human beings are to be found in the stories of their lives But what happens to those stories and to the people whose lives are told when a researcher seeks to make those stories known Ruthellen Josselson has assembled an international cast of scholars to reflect on the process of life narrative study and the ethical dilemmas that face researchers whose very mode of narrative inquiry may inevitably involve a violation of another and unwittingly lead to a sense of betrayal shame or guilt In these disarmingly candid and engaging essays narrative researchers of many different stripes talk about the morally delicate and epistemologically precarious enterprise of telling another's story The authors raise fascinating questions about who ultimately controls the tellings what happens to stories once they are told and why stories influence not only the people whose lives are told but also the tellers themselves whose own professional and personal lives may even be captured by or appropriated into the stories they are aiming to tell This exceptional volume the latest in The Narrative Study of Lives series is essential for researchers professionals and students in research methods including qualitative methods developmental psychology education relationships and language and discourse analysis My Soul is My Own Gwendolyn Etter-Lewis,1993 Presents the lives of early 20th century African American women in a unique context their own words The women themselves are as extraordinary as the language they use to describe their experiences at home university and work Analyzing Talk in the Social Sciences Katherine Bischooping,Amber Gazso,2015-11-10 Talk is one of the main resources available to qualitative researchers It offers rich meaningful data that can provide real insights and new perspectives But once you have the data how do you select an appropriate means of analysis How do you ensure that the approach you adopt is the best for your project and your data The book will help you choose strategies for qualitative analysis that best suit your research It walks you through key decisions provides actionable game plans and highlights the advantages and challenges of the main approaches It is packed full of real examples designed to showcase the different tools you might use to meet your own objectives Each section of the book focuses on one popular strategy for analyzing talk based data Narrative Analysis Conversation Analysis Discourse Analysis Taken together these sections will help you to fine tune the link between your primary research question and your methods to ensure that your theoretical stance fits with your methods and to reason through your analysis in a way that will be recognizable to the intellectual communities of narrative conversation or discourse analysts This book is both starting point and map for any social scientist looking to strategically and purposefully analyse talk data Subject To Fiction Munro , Peter,1998-04-01 Drawing on the life histories of three teachers this book explores their narrative strategies to author themselves as active agents within and against the essentializing discourses of teaching The complex and contradictory ways in which these women construct themselves as subjects while simultaneously disrupting the notion of a unitary subject provide new ways to think about subjectivity resistance power and agency

Wives of Steel Karen Olson,2005 Wives of Steel is based on more than eighty formal interviews conducted over a fifteen year period with women and some men both white and black all of whom were part of Sparrows Point as workers spouses or longtime residents of the local communities Through the stories they tell we see how a male dominated industry has influenced personal family and social experiences over several generations We also see the distinct differences and surprising similarities among the lives of black and white women which often reflect the complicated relationships among black and white steelworkers in the plant Unrelated Kin Gwendolyn Etter-Lewis,Michèle Foster,1996 This groundbreaking book presents conceptual theoretical and applied research on women s life histories The authors fulfill two needs they provide a collection of essays that grapple with controversial issues in the study of life history and they present many narratives from women of color the majority collected and interpreted by women of color The individual chapters offer a variety of voices linked by a philosophical and political orientation that places women of color at the center of scholarly inquiry rather than at the periphery Ultimately readers find in this text innovative ways of reconceptualizing the complexities of women s lives Routledge Library Editions: Women and Business Various,2021-07-14 This 15 volume set of previously out of print tiles examines many aspects of women and business Encompassing such as areas as women s access to managerial positions positions within trade unions inequality family life role in family businesses and entrepreneurship it is a remarkable collection and a vital business reference source

Understanding Critical Race Research Methods and Methodologies Jessica T. DeCuir-Gunby, Thandeka K. Chapman, Paul A. Schutz, 2018-12-07 Despite the growing urgency for Critical Race Theory CRT in the field of education the how of this theoretical framework can often be overlooked This exciting edited collection presents different methods and methodologies which are used by education researchers to investigate critical issues of racial justice in education from a CRT perspective Featuring scholars from a range of disciplines the chapters showcase how various researchers synthesize different methods including qualitative quantitative and mixed methods and historical and archival research with CRT to explore issues of equity and access in the field of education Scholars discuss their current research approaches using CRT and present new models of conducting research within a CRT framework offering a valuable contribution to ongoing methodological debates Researchers across different levels of expertise will find the articulations of CRT and methods insightful and compelling

Obstructed Labour Sheryl Nestel, 2011-11-01 Obstructed Labour analyzes how the movement to legalize midwifery in Ontario reproduced racial inequality by excluding from practice hundreds of professional midwives from the global south Global macroprocesses of power institutional forms of exclusion and interpersonal expressions of racism all play a part Sheryl Nestel shows that unequal relations between women underlie the successful challenge to patriarchal medical authority mounted by provincial midwifery activists This is a disquieting but fascinating counter history of the re emergence of midwifery Obstructed Labour should be read by those who want to understand how racism works in both policy and everyday practice as well as by those interested in pursuing equity in the struggle for women s reproductive rights

The Family Silver Susan Krieger, 1996-09-21 A magnificent read a profoundly personal narrative The Family Silver is on the cutting edge of feminist scholarship Verta Taylor coeditor of Feminist Frontiers Just as Krieger s The Mirror Dance was the first to describe the lesbian community The Family Silver is the first book to blend the personal familial relational professional and political roles of lesbians in today s society I loved reading it Esther Rothblum editor of Journal of Lesbian Studies

Sista, Speak! Sonja L. Lanehart, 2010-01-01 2003 Honorable Mention Myers Outstanding Book Award The Gustavus Myers Center for the Study of Bigotry and Human Rights in North America The demand of white affluent society that all Americans should speak read and write proper English causes many people who are not white and or middle class to attempt to talk in a way that feel peculiar to their mind as a character in Alice Walker s The Color Purple puts it In this book Sonja Lanehart explores how this valorization of proper English has affected the language literacy educational achievements and self image of five African American women her grandmother mother aunt sister and herself Through interviews and written statements by each woman Lanehart draws out the life stories of these women and their attitudes toward and use of language Making comparisons and contrasts among them she shows how even within a single family differences in age educational opportunities and social circumstances can lead to widely different abilities and comfort in using language to navigate daily life Her research also adds a new dimension to our understanding of African American English which has been little studied in relation to women

Speech Communities Marcyliena H. Morgan, 2014-02-20 What makes a speech community How do they evolve How are speech communities identified Speech communities are central to our understanding of how language and interactions occur in societies around the world and in this book readers will find an overview of the main concepts and critical arguments surrounding how language and communication styles distinguish and identify groups Speech communities are not organized around linguistic facts but around people who want to share their opinions and identities the language we use constructs represents and embodies meaningful participation in society This book focuses on a range of speech communities including those that have developed from an increasing technological world where migration and global interactions are common Essential reading for graduate students and researchers in linguistic anthropology sociolinguistics and applied linguistics
