Beat Writers at Work Paris Review, 1999-02-16 From the pages of The Paris Review a collection of interviews with Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg William Burroughs Ken Kesey Lawrence Ferlinghetti and more Edited by Paris Review co founder George Plimpton and with an introduction by Rick Moody this anthology of Writers at Work interviews featuring the great figures of the Beat and Black Mountain movements is an in depth look into one of the most famous literary tribes of the century The Beats with their mix of talent bravado and insight into the social and political climes of their time continue to influence students writers and critics today Mr Plimpton and his able cohorts at The Paris Review have cannily chosen this historical moment for the retrieval of this archive viz the fortieth anniversary of Kerouac's masterpiece and also the recent departures of Ginsberg and Burroughs to celestial addresses and thus we have a real war and all retrospective ex post facto Kerouac in the late sixties Ginsberg in one of two pieces here in the late seventies Bowles in the eighties Snyder in the nineties so that the high period of Beat style is well past at the time of these conversations Plimpton's wisdom here amounts to permitting the language and form of these interviews to persist over the years and thereby accrue historical context in which we are enabled to see how the Beat praxis or Black Mountain praxis is reactive when faced with such forces as Vietnam hippie culture eighties consumerism neglect by literary history and so forth from the introduction by Rick Moody

The Unspoken as Heritage Harry Harootunian, 2019-11-29 In the 1910s historian Harry Harootunian's parents Ohannes and Vehanush escaped the mass slaughter of the Armenian genocide making their way to France where they first met before settling in suburban Detroit Although his parents rarely spoke of their families and the horrors they survived the genocide and their parents silence about it was a permanent backdrop to the Harootunian children's upbringing In The Unspoken as

Heritage Harootunian for the first time in his distinguished career turns to his personal life and family heritage to explore the genocide's multigenerational afterlives that remain at the heart of the Armenian diaspora. Drawing on novels, anecdotes, and reports, Harootunian presents a composite sketch of the everyday life of his parents from their childhood in East Anatolia to the difficulty of making new lives in the United States. A meditation on loss, inheritance, and survival in which Harootunian attempts to come to terms with a history that is just beyond his reach. The Unspoken as Heritage demonstrates how the genocidal past never leaves the present even in its silence. Foleytown S. K. Cole, 2016-05-27 Foleytown is a special place, a place where there is always a shortage of money but never a shortage of laughs. Follow the children of the large financially struggling Foley clan as they navigate through bloody pomegranate fights, epic games of Christmas Card War, homemade bridesmaid dresses, fears of itinerant serial killers, and the cherished summer tradition they called Prune. Why Oh all while learning how to grow up in a very unfashionable part of California. A Poet's Mind Christopher Wagstaff, 2012-08-07 Robert Duncan (1919-1988), one of the major postwar American poets, was an adulated figure among his contemporaries, including Robert Creeley, Charles Olson, and Denise Levertov. Lawrence Ferlinghetti remarked that Duncan had the best ear this side of Dante. His stature is increasingly recognized as comparable to that of Ezra Pound, William Carlos Williams, H. D., and Louis Zukofsky. Like his poetry, Duncan's conversation is generative and multi-directional, pushing out the boundaries of discourse. His recorded reflections are a means of discovery and exploration, and whether talking with a college student or a fellow poet, he was fully engaged and open to new thoughts as they emerged. The exchanges in this book are exciting and lively. His vast and wide-ranging knowledge offers readers an increased understanding of the interrelations of the arts, history, psychology, and science. Those who would like to learn about Duncan's own life, his bravery in being an out gay man well before Stonewall, and his friendships with fellow writers such as Charles Olson, Jack Spicer, and Kenneth Rexroth will find this book richly rewarding. The six volumes of Duncan's collected writings are being issued by the University of California Press. The collected interviews are an indispensable companion to these books, providing an in-depth exposition of his poetics, which center on the belief that the poem is a medium for the life of the spirit. In A Poet's Mind, he describes the genesis of some of his works, including that of books, essays, and individual poems, and also discusses gay love and life along with the many diverse influences on his work. Duncan's fertile creative mind is also evident in these conversations, often coming back to Ezra Pound. In these conversations, he gives one of the clearest expositions to be found anywhere on the scope and meaning of The Cantos. This volume also includes a number of photographs never before published.
