Practice Of Diaspora:

The Practice of Diaspora Brent Hayes Edwards, 2003-07-10 Edwards revisits black transnational culture in the 1920s and 1930s paying particular attention to links between the intellectuals of the Harlem Renaissance and their Francophone counterparts in Paris He suggests that diaspora is less a historical condition than a set of practices through which black intellectuals pursue international alliances

The Practice of Diaspora Brent Hayes Edwards, 2003 The Crisis , 2003-07 The Crisis founded by W E B Du Bois as the official publication of the NAACP is a journal of civil rights history politics and culture and seeks to educate and challenge its readers about issues that continue to plague African Americans and other communities of color For nearly 100 years The Crisis has been the magazine of opinion and thought leaders decision makers peacemakers and justice seekers It has chronicled informed educated entertained and in many instances set the economic political and social agenda for our nation and its multi ethnic citizens

Colonial Metropolis Jennifer Anne Boittin, 2010-06-01 Between the world wars the mesmerizing capital of France s colonial empire attracted denizens from Africa the Caribbean and the United States Paris became not merely their home but also a site for political engagement Colonial Metropolis tells the story of the interactions and connections of these black colonial migrants and white feminists in the social cultural and political world of interwar Paris and of how both were denied certain rights lauded by the Third Republic such as the vote how they suffered from sensationalist depictions in popular culture and how they pursued parity in ways that were often interpreted as politically subversive

Diasporic Poetics Timothy Yu, 2021 Studies Asian American Asian Canadian and Asian Australian writing to establish what diasporic poetics might be held in common

American Studies Janice A. Radway, Kevin Gaines, Barry Shank, Penny Von Eschen, 2009-03-09 American Studies is a vigorous bold account of the changes in the field of American Studies over the last thirty five years Through this set of carefully selected key essays by an editorial board of expert scholars the book demonstrates how changes in the field have produced new genealogies that tell different histories of both America and the study of America Charts the evolution of American Studies from the end of World War II to the present day by showcasing the best scholarship in this field An introductory essay by the distinguished editorial board highlights developments in the field and places each essay in its historical and theoretical context Explores topics such as American politics history culture race gender and working life Shows how changing perspectives have enabled older concepts to emerge in a different context

Missional Life in Practice and Theory Christopher L. Flanders, Greg McKinzie, 2024-01-19 Few missiologists have impacted mission theory and practice among Churches of Christ as significantly as has Dr Gailyn Van Rheezen yet his global missiological influence has extended far beyond the boundaries of his denominational heritage This Festschrift in honor of Gailyn Van Rheezen contains original missiological contributions from colleagues and former students Most chapters were presentations at the inaugural Gailyn Van Rheezen Sessions in Mission and World Christianity at the 2021 Christian Scholars Conference in Nashville Tennessee

The volume is organized to parallel the phases of Van Rhee's career: Africa academic missiology and Mission Alive a North American church planting organization. His legacy is one that wonderfully embodies critical theory and robust practice. To be Free and French Lorelle Semley, 2017-07-20 An ambitious new vision of French citizenship from the perspective of Africans and Antilleans living in the colonies and mainland France. Lorelle Semley explores the ways in which these colonial subjects used French democratic ideals to demand rights and redefine the meanings of freedom and Frenchness.

Dismantling Diasporas Anastasia Christou, Elizabeth Mavroudi, 2016-03-09 Re-energising debates on the conceptualisation of diasporas in migration scholarship and in geography, this work stresses the important role that geographers can play in interrupting assumptions about the spaces and processes of diaspora. The intricate material and complex ways in which those in diaspora contest, construct and perform identity, politics, development and place is explored throughout this book. The authors dismantle diasporas in order to re-theorise the concept through empirically grounded, cutting-edge global research. This innovative volume will appeal to an international and interdisciplinary audience in ethnic migration and diaspora studies as it tackles comparative, multi-sited and multi-method research through compelling case studies in a variety of contexts spanning the Global North and South. The research in this book is guided by four interconnected themes: the ways in which diasporas are constructed and performed through identity, the body, everyday practice and place; how those in diaspora become politicised and how this leads to unities and disunities in relation to here and there; the ways in which diasporas seek to connect and re-connect with their homelands and the consequences of this in terms of identity formation, employment and theorising who counts as a diaspora; and how those in diaspora engage with homeland development and the challenges this creates. The Identity and Mission of the Korean American Church

Enoch Jinsik Kim, Sebastian Kim, 2024-07-02 This volume interweaves contributions from a group of scholars brought together for the 2022 Korean Studies Center Symposium at Fuller Theological Seminary. The collection provides a forum for scholars of Korean American Protestant churches to address key challenges concerning the sociocultural and theological formation of identity and mission as these churches continue to navigate their place in society in relation to others, including Korean churches in South Korea, mainline churches in the US, other ethnic churches and multiethnic churches. The chapters address the following issues: who the Korean American churches are; God's vision for the Korean American churches; how to interpret the Korean American journey in immigrant church history; how heritage sustained them and will keep them; what the immigrant church should know in this post-pandemic time; and the hopes of the next generation. Youth Language Practices in Africa and Beyond Nico Nassenstein, Andrea Hollington, 2015-09-14 Youth languages have increasingly attracted the attention of scholars and students of various disciplines. African youth languages are a vibrant phenomenon with manifold characteristics involving a range of different languages. This book is a first comprehensive study of African youth languages and presents fresh insights into various youth languages, providing linguistic as well as sociolinguistic data and analyses.

Translation Revisited Mamadou Diawara, Elísio S. Macamo, Jean-Bernard Ouédraogo, 2019-01-17 How realistic is it to expect translation to render the world intelligible in a context shaped by different historical trajectories and experiences Can we rely on human universals to translate through the unique and specific webs of meaning that languages represent If knowledge production is a kind of translation then it is fair to assume that the possibility of translation has largely rested on the idea that Western experience is the repository of these human universals against the background of which different human experiences can be rendered intelligible The problem with this assumption however is that there are limits to Western claims to universalism mainly because these claims were at the service of the desire to justify imperial expansion This book addresses issues arising from these claims to universalism in the process of producing knowledge about diverse African social realities It shows that the idea of knowledge production as translation can be usefully deployed to inquire into how knowledge of Africa translates into an imperial attempt at changing local norms institutions and spiritual values Translation in this sense is the normalization of meanings issuing from a local historical experience claiming to be universal The task of producing knowledge of African social realities cannot be adequately addressed without a prior critical engagement with how translation has come to shape our ways of rendering Africa intelligible American Studies as Transnational Practice Yuan Shu, Donald E. Pease, 2015-12-22 This wide ranging collection brings together an eclectic group of scholars to reflect upon the transnational configurations of the field of American studies and how these have affected its localizations epistemological perspectives ecological imaginaries and politics of translation The volume elaborates on the causes of the transnational paradigm shift in American studies and describes the material changes that this new paradigm has effected during the past two decades The contributors hail from a variety of postcolonial transoceanic hemispheric and post national positions and sensibilities enabling them to theorize a crossroads of cultures explanation of transnational American studies that moves beyond the multicultural studies model Offering a rich and rewarding mix of essays and case studies this collection will satisfy a broad range of students and scholars

current events Practical new interpretation of changes in the West Throughout its history the church has faced crises of meaning and identity in all kinds of changing contexts The crises facing the churches of the western hemisphere today are no different At their best churches have recognized that their challenge is not their own fixing or even reformation but a deep engagement with the ways the gospel transforms society This book explores how this can happen again in a radically changing western world The Impact of Diasporas Joanna Story,Iain Walker,2018-10-11 Markers of identity define human groups who belongs and who is excluded These markers are often overt language material culture patterns of behaviour and are carefully nurtured between generations other times they can be invisible intangible or unconscious Such markers of identity also travel and can be curated distilled or reworked in new lands and in new cultural environments It has always been thus markers of identity are often central to the ties that bind dispersed diasporic communities across lands and through time This book brings together research that discusses a very wide range of scholarly approaches periods and places from the Viking diaspora in the north Atlantic and Anglo Saxon treasure hoards to what DNA can and cannot reveal about human identity to modern multicultural Martinique East London and urban Africa and the effect of the absence of geopolitical identity of statelessness among the Roma and Palestinians to better understand how markers of identity contribute to the impact of diasporas This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies
