The True Story of Alice B. Toklas Anna Linzie, 2006-04 In this original and intriguing study, Anna Linzie examines three mid-twentieth-century texts never before treated as interrelated in a book length work of literary criticism. Gertrude Stein's The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas (1933) and Alice B. Toklas's The Alice B. Toklas

Cook Book 1954 and What Is Remembered 1963 Taking these three texts as intertexts or as an assemblage of the true story of Alice B Toklas Linzie challenges assumptions about primary authorship and singular identity that have continued to limit lesbian and feminist rereadings of autobiography as a genre and of Stein and Toklas as writers and historical figures The True Story of Alice B Toklas explores how the concept of autobiography as a primarily referential genre is challenged and transformed in relation to autobiographical texts written about the same person the same life but differently by different writers at different points in time The concept of one true story is deconstructed in the process as Linzie modifies Homi K Bhabha s almost the same but not quite not white for the purposes of this particular study as almost the same but not quite not straight The investigation moves simultaneously on the planes of textuality and sexuality in order to provisionally articulate a lesbian autobiographical subject in Linzie s reading of these three texts Linzie s study fills a gap in literary criticism where Stein s companion and her work have been more or less neglected conceptualizing the Stein Toklas sexual textual relationship as fundamentally reciprocal The True Story of Alice B Toklas provides a new critical perspective on Toklas as indispensable to Stein s literary production a cultural laborer in her own right and a writer of her own books Making a significant contribution to recent lesbian feminist reconceptualizations of the genre of autobiography this study will fascinate Stein and Toklas scholars as well as those interested in queer and autobiography studies

Negotiating Tradition Stefan Groth,2012 Communicative interactions in international negotiations on cultural property not only provide information about the emergence and proliferation of arguments rhetorics and registers but also permit valuable insights into actors positions strategies and alliances They significantly influence local and national practices and views related to cultural property debates What can be gained from a deep analysis of the communicative patterns and strategies that actors engage in the entailing text and talk of negotiations is a better understanding of the process itself how do different actors argue what kind of strategies and rhetorics do they use to which instruments and institutions do they refer and in what way do actors react to each other An analysis of communicative interactions contributes to the question of how international negotiations work The analytic inclusion of sociolinguistic practices allows insights into positions strategies and perspectives pertaining to cultural property By looking at not only what actors say but also at how and in what contexts they do so it is possible to make more accurate statements about their positions and perceptions in cultural property debates As these communicative interactions influence outcomes considerably an approach from linguistic anthropology is not only beneficial for an understanding of specific negotiations but also for the analysis of broader cultural property issues Provided by publisher
