Baber,2010-12 Argues that anyone who favors the expansion of individual liberty should reject a multiculturalism that restricts personal freedom by classifying and identifying people on the basis of unchosen characteristics such as ancestry and appearance Encyclopedia of Television Series, Pilots and Specials Vincent Terrace,1986 Freedom to Play Norah L. Lewis,2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children s pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and
