Seasonal Undernutrition in Rural Ethiopia Anna Ferro-Luzzi, 2001-01-01 Research questions and motivation for policy analysis Data and methodology Seasonal energy stress in southern Shewa Physiological correlates of undernutrition in adults Heterogeneity of response to seasonal stress Methods used to assess the nutritional and functional status of study individuals Seasonal Undernutrition in Rural Ethiopia Anna Ferro Luzzi, Saul S. Morris, Samson Taffesse, Tsegaye etc Demissie, 2001 Seasonality, Rural Livelihoods and Development Stephen Devereux, Rachel Sabates-Wheeler, Richard Longhurst, 2013-07-03 Seasonality is a severe constraint to sustainable rural livelihoods and a driver of poverty and hunger particularly in the tropics Many poor people in developing countries are ill equipped to cope with seasonal variations which can lead to drought or flood and consequences for agriculture employment food supply and the spread of disease The subject has assumed increasing importance as climate change and other forms of development disrupt established seasonal patterns and variations This book is the first systematic study of seasonality for over twenty years and it aims to revive academic interest and policy awareness of this crucial but neglected issue Thematic chapters explore recent shifts with profound implications for seasonality including climate change HIV AIDS and social protection Case study chapters explore seasonal dimensions of livelihoods in Africa Ethiopia Kenya Malawi Asia Bangladesh China India and Latin America Peru Others assess policy responses to adverse seasonality for example through irrigation migration and seasonally sensitive education The book also includes innovative tools for monitoring seasonality which should enable more appropriate responses The Egyptian Food Subsidy System Akhter U. Ahmed, 2001 The Egyptian Food Subsidy System Structure Performance and Options for Reform evaluates the economic political and technical feasibility of reducing costs while improving or maintaining the welfare of the poor The report addresses five questions 1 How well does the present system target the poor 2 How much leakage the pilferage of subsidized foods in the distribution channel occurs 3 At what cost does the government transfer income to the needy 4 How can subsidies be better targeted to the needy And 5 What are politically feasible options for reform Seasons of Hunger Stephen Devereux, Bapu Vaitla, Samuel Hauenstein Swan, 2008-09-20 Every year millions of the rural poor suffer from predictable and preventable seasonal hunger This hunger is less dramatic but no less damaging than the starvation associated with famines wars and natural disasters Seasons of Hunger explores why the world does not react to a crisis that we know will continue year after year Seasonal hunger is caused by annual cycles of shrinking food stocks rising prices and lack of income This hidden hunger pushes millions of children to the brink of starvation every year permanently stunting their physical and cognitive development weakening their immune systems and opening the door for killer diseases Action Against Hunger argue that ending seasonal hunger could save millions of young lives and is key to achieving the Millennium Development Goals This book documents seasonal hunger in four countries India Malawi Mali and Myanmar including personal stories and country wide data which shows the magnitude of the problem The authors also find encouraging examples of interventions designed to address seasonality initiatives led by governments donors and NGOs and poor people themselves and propose a package of advocacy messages that could contribute to the global eradication of seasonal hunger This book will be a valuable resource for journalists policy makers NGO members and students of development studies

Insurance Against Poverty World Institute for Development Economics Research, 2005 Poor people in developing countries are often affected by droughts floods illness crop failure job loss and economic downturns Much of their energy goes into coping with these shocks and into day to day survival While insurance and credit markets combined with widespread social security provide an important cushion against poverty in rich countries the need for immediate survival may lock the poor into persistent poverty in developing countries The poor in developing countries do have informal mechanisms to cope with risk and misfortune These are based on income diversification risk avoidance self insurance by saving together with family and community based mutual assistance Nevertheless the scope of these mechanisms remains limited Repeated individual specific shocks such as illness or pests or covariate risks associated with drought flood or recession undermine the ability of individuals and their families to cope with risk We now know much more about vulnerability to risk and how poor people cope Even more importantly we have learned much about the large long term consequences of these risks which condemns many to persistent poverty and excludes them from economic growth But there is much that can be done The micro level studies that underpin this book offer new insights on how effective public action could be more effective in protecting the vulnerable against persistent poverty Policy should focus on providing a comprehensive menu of ex ante and post crisis protection mechanisms including new forms of insurance savings safety nets and the means to strengthen the poor's asset base Local communities have a big role to play public funds should not be used to replace indigenous community based support networks rather they should be used to build on the strengths of these networks to ensure broader and more effective protection With numerous thematic chapters and case studies of both best practice and of failure from a mix of low income and middle income countries across the developing world this book evaluates alternatives in widening insurance and protection provision and makes an important contribution to the topical field of insurance and risk

Evolving Human Nutrition Stanley J. Ulijaszek, Neil Mann, Sarah Elton, 2012-10-18 While most of us live our lives according to the working week we did not evolve to be bound by industrial schedules nor did the food we eat Despite this we eat the products of industrialization and often suffer as a consequence This book considers aspects of changing human nutrition from evolutionary and social perspectives It considers what a natural human diet might be how it has been shaped across evolutionary time and how we have adapted to changing food availability The transition from hunter gatherer and the rise of agriculture through to the industrialisation and globalisation of diet are explored Far from being adapted to a Stone

Age diet humans can consume a vast range of foodstuffs However being able to eat anything does not mean that we should eat everything and therefore engagement with the evolutionary underpinnings of diet and factors influencing it are key to better public health practice

Watershed Development Projects in India J. M. Kerr, Ganesh Pangare, Vasudha Pangare, 2002-01-01 The Green Revolution that transformed irrigated agriculture elsewhere in India had little effect in the rainfed semi arid regions Agricultural productivity remained low natural resources were degrading and the people were poor In the 1980s and 1990s planners turned to watershed management to develop rainfed agriculture while conserving natural resources By the late 1990s India was spending US 500 million a year on watershed development projects Strategies ranged from the purely technical to those that emphasized social organization Little systematic analysis exists however on the success of the different approaches This study based on a survey of 86 villages in Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra states attempts to fill that information gap by evaluating the projects relative success in raising agricultural productivity improving natural resource management and reducing poverty In looking at the question of what approaches enable a project to succeed it uses both quantitative and qualitative analysis to compare project and nonproject villages before and after the projects were implemented The authors find that projects involving the villagers in planning and decisionmaking performed better than their technocratic top down counterparts but projects that combined participation with sound technical input performed best of all All projects faced difficulties in ensuring that poor people shared the benefits of watershed development
