the last decades of the twentieth century Drawing on archival research and newly gathered in depth oral history interviews the monograph argues that expectations placed upon community based doctors nurses and mental health staff since the 1980s in relation to predicting and preventing the sexual abuse of children by men they know are incongruous Beneath a surface acquiescence to the need to protect children from such abuse or to intervene early lie cultural social and structural barriers that prevent its fulfilment The book is a first in specifically interrogating the recent history of the role of community health practitioners within the modern child protection workforce and contributes to growing scholarship on the history of emotions in the medical professions "Anbeshi" Status and Dimension of Violence against Women, Reality Revealed 2015
