Introduction:

After the invasion of Chingiz Khan in Central Asian region and Khorasan area, many scholars, Sufi saints, Udaba, Ulema and other migrated towards South Asian region. Within the South Asian region, Kashmir is a part of northern India, which is very close to the some part of the Turkestan region. Till 14th century, Kashmir was originally a land occupied by the Brahmins. Syed Ali Hamadani gave special attention towards the people of the Kashmir. He was well aware about the country's social condition, economic situation and religious affairs before coming to Kashmir. He arrived there as a reformer with a team of seven hundred experts in various fields of activity. Among them were artisans and craftsmen who introduced people to the arts like carpet-weaving and paper machine that helped their economic condition.

His message of equality and respect for human life liberated men and women from the control of priests and from tyrannous practices like sati. His influence spread far and wide on account of his deep scholarship and spiritual attainments and even more because of his simultaneous attention to spiritual enlightenment and material well-being of people. Today he is remembered as Amir-e- Kabir (the great commander), Shah-e- Hamadan (king of Hamadan) and the Ali Sani. On the occasion of his 700th anniversary, Tajikistan has taken initiative to celebrate the anniversary of Mir Syed Ali Hamadani, a great sufi saint and scholar as well as social reformer. Several places, he was quoted by great philosopher and poet Allama Iqbal for his works on spirituality and Sufism.
