diagnosis of the silent epidemic of fear afflicting new mothers and a candid feminist deep dive into the culture science history and psychology of contemporary motherhood Anxiety among mothers is a growing but largely unrecognized crisis In the transition to mother hood and the years that follow countless women suffer from overwhelming feelings of fear grief and obsession that do not fit neatly within the outmoded category of postpartum depression These women soon discover that there is precious little support or time for their care even as expectations about what mothers should do and be continue to rise Many struggle to distinguish normal worry from crippling madness in a culture in which their anxiety is often ignored normalized or most dangerously seen as taboo Drawing on extensive research numerous interviews and the raw particulars of her own experience with anxiety writer and mother Sarah Menkedick gives us a comprehensive examination of the biology psychology history and societal conditions surrounding the crushing and life limiting fear that has become the norm for so many Woven into the stories of women s lives is an examination of the factors such as the changing structure of the maternal brain the ethically problematic ways risk is construed during pregnancy and the marginalization of motherhood as an identity that explore how motherhood came to be an experience so dominated by anxiety and how mothers might reclaim it Writing with profound empathy visceral honesty and deep understanding Menkedick makes clear how critically we need to expand our awareness of compassion for and care for women s lives
