Post-Colonial Distances Denis Crowdy,Bev Diamond,Daniel Downes,2020-10-27 This anthology emanated from a conference in St John s Newfoundland that brought together popular music scholars folklorists and ethnomusicologists from Canada and Australia Implicit in that conference and in this anthology is the comparability of the two countries Their post colonial status if that is indeed an appropriate modifier in either case has some points of similarity On the other hand their distance from hegemonic centres from colonial histories is arguably more a matter of contrast than similarity Canada and Australia are similar in various regards Post colonial in the sense that they are both former British colonies they now each have more than a century of stature as nation states By the beginning of the 21st century they are each modest in size but rich in ethnocultural diversity Nonetheless each country has some skeletons in the closet where openness to difference to indigenous and new immigrant groups are concerned Both countries are similarly both experiencing rapid shifts in cultural makeup with the biggest population increases in Australia coming from China India and South Africa and the biggest in Canada from Afro Caribbean South Asian countries and China The chapters in this anthology constitute an important comparative initiative Perhaps the most obvious point of comparison is that both countries create commercial music in the shadow of the hegemonic US and British industries As the authors demonstrate both proximity specifically Canada s nearness to the US and distance have advantages and disadvantages As the third and fourth largest Anglophone music markets for popular music they face similar issues relating to music management performance markets and production A second relationship as chapters in this anthology attest is the significant movement between the two countries in a matrix of exchange and influence among musicians that has rarely been studied hitherto Third both countries invite comparison with regard to the popular music production of diverse social groups within their national populations In particular the tremendous growth of indigenous popular music has resulted in opportunities as well as challenges Additionally however the strategies that different waves of immigrants have adopted to devise or localize popular music that was both competitive and meaningful to their own people as well as to a larger demographic bear comparison The historical similarities and differences as well as the global positionality of each country in the early 21st century then invites comparison relating to musical practices social organization lyrics as they articulate social issues career strategies industry structures and listeners

Negro Musicians and their Music Maud Cuney-Hare, 2020-09-28 In offering this study of Negro music I do so with the admission that there is no consistent development as found in national schools of music The Negro a musical force through his own distinct racial characteristics has made an artistic contribution which is racial but not yet national Rather has the influence of musical stylistic traits termed Negro spread over many nations wherever the colonies of the New World have become homes of Negro people These expressions in melody and rhythm have been a compelling force in American music tragic and joyful in emotion pathetic and ludicrous in melody primitive and barbaric in rhythm The welding of these expressions has brought about a harmonic effect which is now influencing thoughtful musicians throughout the world At present there is evidenced a new movement far from academic which plays an important technical part in the music of this and other lands The question as to whether there exists a pure Negro art in America is warmly debated Many Negroes as well as Anglo Americans admit that the so called American Negro is no longer an African Negro Apart from the fusion of blood he has for centuries been moved by the same stimuli which have affected all citizens of the United States They argue rightly that he is a product of a vital American civilization with all its daring its progress its ruthlessness and unlovely speed As an integral part of the nation the Negro is influenced by like social environment and governed by the same political institutions thus page vi we may expect the ultimate result of his musical endeavors to be an art music which embodies national characteristics exercised upon by his soul s expression In the field of composition the early sporadic efforts by people of African descent while not without historic importance have been succeeded by contributions from a rising group of talented composers of color who are beginning to find a listening public The tendency of this music is toward the development of an American symphonic operatic and ballet school led for the moment by a few lone Negro musicians of vision and high ideals The story of those working toward this end is herein treated Facts for this volume have been obtained from educated African scholars with whom the author sought acquaintanceship and from printed sources found in the Boston Public Library the New York Public Library and the Music Division of the Library of Congress The author has also had access to rare collections and private libraries which include her own Folk material has been gathered in personal travel

Grainger the Modernist Suzanne Robinson, Kay Dreyfus, 2016-03-09 Unaccountably Percy Grainger has remained on the margins of both American music history and twentieth century modernism This volume reveals the well known composer of popular gems to be a self described hyper modernist who composed works of uncompromising dissonance challenged the conventions of folk song collection and adaptation re visioned the modern orchestra experimented with ego less composition and designed electronic machines intended to supersede human application Grainger was far from being a self sufficient maverick working in isolation Through contact with innovators such as Ferruccio Busoni L on Theremin and Henry Cowell
