We Are an African People Russell Rickford, 2016-01-14 During the height of the Black Power movement of the late 1960s and 1970s dozens of Pan African nationalist private schools from preschools to post secondary ventures appeared in urban settings across the United States The small independent enterprises were often accused of teaching hate and were routinely harassed by authorities Yet these institutions served as critical mechanisms for transmitting black consciousness Founded by activist intellectuals and other radicalized veterans of the civil rights movement the schools strove not simply to bolster the academic skills and self esteem of inner city African American youth but also to decolonize minds and foster a vigorous and regenerative sense of African identity In We Are An African People historian Russell Rickford traces the intellectual lives of these autonomous black institutions established dedicated to pursuing the self determination that the integrationist civil rights movement had failed to provide Influenced by Third World theorists and anticolonial campaigns organizers of the schools saw formal education as a means of creating a vanguard of young activists devoted to the struggle for black political sovereignty throughout the world Most of the institutions were short lived and they offered only modest numbers of children a genuine alternative to substandard inner city public schools Yet their stories reveal much about Pan Africanism as a social and intellectual movement and as a key part of an indigenous black nationalism Rickford uses this largely forgotten movement to explore a particularly fertile period of political cultural and social revitalization that strove to revolutionize African American life and envision an alternate society Reframing the post civil rights era as a period of innovative organizing he depicts the prelude to the modern Afrocentric movement and contributes to the ongoing conversation about urban educational reform race and identity

Brothers Gonna Work It Out Charise Cheney,2005-08-01 Brothers Gonna Work It Out considers the political expression of rap artists within the historical tradition of black nationalism Interweaving songs and personal interviews with hip hop artists and activists including Chuck D of Public Enemy KRS One Rosa Clemente manager of dead prez and Wise Intelligent of Poor Righteous Teachers Cheney links late twentieth century hip hop nationalists with their nineteenth century spiritual forebears Cheney examines Black nationalism as an ideology historically inspired by a crisis of masculinity Challenging simplistic notions of hip hop culture as simply sexist or misogynistic she pays particular attention to Black nationalists historicizing of slavery and their visualization of male empowerment through violent resistance She charts the recent rejection of Christianity in the lyrics of rap nationalist music due to the perception that it is too conciliatory and the increasing popularity of Black Muslim rap artists Cheney situates rap nationalism in the 1980s and 90s within a long tradition of Black nationalist political thought which extends beyond its more obvious influences in the mid to late twentieth century like the Nation of Islam or the Black Power Movement and demonstrates its power as a voice for disenfranchised and disillusioned youth all over the world

Scars of Conquest/masks of Resistance Tejumola Olaniyan,1995 Examining in detail the dramas of Baraka Soyinka Walcott and Shange this study describes how these black writers are preoccupied with the invention of a postimperial cultural identity It charts the foundations of an important aesthetic form the drama of the African diaspora
