Counseling and Action Richard A. Young, José F. Domene, Ladislav Valach, 2014-06-17 Engaging in action is at the heart of our most meaningful experiences And given the fast paced goal driven nature of modern society engagement in action is also central to how we perceive ourselves Action has traditionally been viewed as an end product of the counseling process but now a bold new redefinition makes counseling not only a driver of action but an action in itself Counseling and Action couples a timely update on the multiple roles of action in counseling with an action based framework for enhancing progress between client and professional Grounded in the core concepts of contextual action theory as well as key aspects of counseling e g identity intentionality emotion the book explicates an approach that is responsive to client complexities and the larger social conditions that frame them Expert penned chapters apply theory to practice illustrating levels of engagement in action as counselor and client negotiate goals and work toward their realization And an especially useful section offers guidelines for intervening with specific populations and addressing particular issues Among the topics covered Designing projects for career construction Agentive action in context Counseling intentional addiction recovery grounded in relationships and social meaning The action of mindfulness in counseling A contextual action theory perspective on self efficacy in individual counseling Counseling processes and procedures through the lens of contextual action theory With its forceful argument for a quantum leap in both theory and practice Counseling and Action is transformative reading for professionals educators and graduate students in social work psychotherapy psychology and counseling Purpose, Meaning, and Action K.

McClelland, T. Fararo, 2016-09-23 Control Systems Theory a newly developing theoretical perspective starts from an important insight into human behaviour that people attempt to control the world around them as they perceive it This book brings together for the first time the work of prominent sociologists contributing to the development of this wideranging theoretical paradigm The Coordinated Management of Meaning Stephen W. Littlejohn, Sheila McNamee, 2013-11-05

This book honors the life and work of the late W Barnett Pearce a leading theorist in the communication field The book is divided into four sections The first section will lead with an essay by Barnett Pearce This will be followed by sections on 1 practical theory 2 dialogue and 3 social transformation In the broadest sense these are probably the three general themes found in the work of Pearce and his colleagues In another sense these categories also identify three important dimensions of Pearce s major contribution the theory of the Coordinated Management of Meaning Action, Meaning, and Argument in Eric Weil's Logic of Philosophy Sequoya Yiaueki, 2023-04-12 This volume investigates Eric Weil s innovative conceptualization of the place of violence in the philosophical tradition with a focus on violence s relationship to language and to discourse Weil presents violence as the central philosophical problem According to this reading the western philosophical tradition commonly conceptualizes violence as an expression of error or as a consequence of the weakness of will. However, by doing so, it misses something essential about the role that violence plays in our conceptual development as well as the place violence holds in our discursive practices. The author draws comparisons between Weil's work and that of Robert Brandom. Brandom's inferentialism creates a sophisticated program at the junction of pragmatics and semantics, philosophy of language, logic, and philosophy of mind. The monograph builds on these insights in order to show how an inferentialist reading of Eric Weil is fruitful for both Weilian studies and for inferentialism. This volume will notably be of interest to scholars in philosophy, argumentation theory, and communication studies.

Meaning in Action Hendrik Wagenaar, 2014-12-18 This accessible book gives academics, graduate students, and researchers a comprehensive overview of the vast, varied, and often confusing landscape of interpretive policy analysis. It is both theoretically informed and clear and jargon-free as it discusses the specific strengths and weaknesses of different interpretive approaches, all with a practical orientation towards doing policy analysis.

Push Back the Dark Elizabeth M. Altmaier, 2017-01-09 Adults in your church, small group, or other Christian organization are silently suffering the tragic consequences of having been sexually abused as children or youth. Why aren't they coming forward for help? Their reluctance may be related to wounds given by the faithful religious people they trusted who said things like, "well, it wasn't rape" or "it's been thirty years, why is this such a big deal?" Such responses from people with religious authority deepen victims' need to shrink into anxiety, depression, and self-degradation. This book offers you the tools needed to undertake caring ministry to adults suffering in the aftermath of childhood sexual abuse. Once you understand the scientific research on such topics as trauma, memory, consequences of abuse, and forgiveness, you will appreciate how caring collaboration can create hope and healing. In these pages, every reader will find helpful content that will take you from feeling out of your depth to knowing you are empowered to be an effective companion in God's transforming work in the lives of survivors of abuse.

The Construction of Negotiated Meaning Linda Flower, 1994 Based on five years of close observation of students writing and collaborative planning, the practice in which student writers take the roles of planner and supporter to help each other develop a more rhetorically sophisticated writing plan, foremost cognitive composition researcher Linda Flower redefines writing in terms of an interactive social and cognitive process and proposes a convincing and compelling theory of the construction of negotiated meaning. Flower seeks to describe how writers construct meaning. Supported by the emerging body of social and cognitive research in rhetoric education and psychology, she portrays meaning-making as a literate act and a constructive process. She challenges traditional definitions of literacy, adding to that concept the elements of social literate practices and personal literate acts. In Flower's view, this social cognitive process is a source of tension and conflict among the multiple forces that shape meaning: the social and cultural context, the demands of discourse, and the writer's own goals and knowledge. Flower outlines a generative theory of conflict. With this conflict central to her theory of the construction of negotiated meaning, she examines negotiation as an alternative to the metaphors of reproduction and conversation It is through negotiation Flower argues that social expectations discourse conventions and the writer s personal goals and knowledge become inner voices The tension among these forces often creates the hidden logic behind student writing In response to these conflicting voices writers sometimes rise to the active negotiation of meaning creating meaning in the interplay of alternatives opportunities and constraints

Social Theory as a Vocation Donald N. Levine, 2017-07-28 In this unprecedented collection Donald N Levine rejuvenates the field of social theory in the face of lagging institutional support The work canvasses the universe of types of theory work in sociology and offers probing examples from his array of scholarly investigations Social Theory as a Vocation throws fresh light on the texts of classic authors Comte Durkheim Simmel Weber Park Parsons and Merton Ranging widely its substantive chapters deal with the sociology of strangers and the somatic dimensions of social conflict the social functions of ambiguity and the use of metaphors in science contemporary dilemmas of Ethiopian society logical tensions in the ideas of freedom and reason and the meaning of nationhood in our global era The book includes Levine s transformative analysis of the field of Ethiopian studies and his acclaimed interpretation of the discontents of modernity It makes the bold move to merge philosophically informed analyses with empirical work Finally Levine focuses on what he views as the contemporary crisis of liberal education and offers suggestions for ways to stimulate new efforts in teaching and learning to do social theory This book is an integral contribution to social science collections and should be read by all interested in the future of the social sciences
