Review Of Federal Cultural Policies For The Arts In Canada 1944-1988:

Policy Matters Clive Robertson, 2006 In this book Clive Robertson examines the subject of arts administration through the three major topics of artist run culture as movement and apparatus custody battles with at the Canada Council and Carings for art and culture Includes interviews with Paule Leduc Roch Carrier Edythe Goodriche and Bruce Russell From Art Metropole website viewed 23 May 2018 Cultural Policy Diane Saint-Pierre, Monica Gattinger, 2021-03-30 How do Canadian provincial and territorial governments intervene in the cultural and artistic lives of their citizens What changes and influences shaped the origin of these policies and their implementation On what foundations were policies based and on what foundations are they based today How have governments defined the concepts of culture and of cultural policy over time What are the objectives and outcomes of their policies and what instruments do they use to pursue them Answers to these questions are multiple and complex partly as a result of the unique historical context of each province and territory and partly because of the various objectives of successive governments and the values and identities of their citizens Cultural Policy Origins Evolution and Implementation in Canada's Provinces and Territories offers a comprehensive history of subnational cultural policies including the institutionalization and instrumentalization of culture by provincial and territorial governments government cultural objectives and outcomes the role of departments Crown corporations other government organizations and major public institutions in the cultural domain and the development dissemination and impact of subnational cultural policy interventions Published in English The Arts and Canada's Cultural Policy, 1995 Canadian Cultural Policy in Transition Devin Beauregard, Jonathan Paquette, 2021-07-28 This book offers a comprehensive overview of Canadian cultural policy and research at a time of transition and redefinition to establish a dialogue between conventional and emerging foundations Taking a historical view the book informs insights on current trends in policy and explores global debates underpinning cultural policy studies within a local context The book first acknowledges what Canadian cultural policy research conventionally recognizes and refers to in terms of institutions values and debates before moving on to take stock of the transformations that are continuing to reshape Canadian cultural policy in terms of values orientations actors and institutions With a focus on all levels of government federal provincial and local the book also centers on Indigenous arts policies and practices This systematic and inclusive volume will appeal to academic researchers graduate students managers of arts and culture programs and institutions and in the areas of cultural policy public administration political science cultural studies film and media studies theatre and performance and museum studies Ethics and Cultural Policy in a Global Economy Sarah Owen Vandersluis, 2003-10-16 Sarah Owen Vandersluis critically examines approaches to cultural policy within the global economy This study taps into the growing debate on ethical theory and International Political Economy It challenges the normative positions of nationalists and welfare economists before developing an alternative communitarian ethics for cultural policy in a global economy The study concludes with an examination of the practical implications of this ethics in several case studies

Tales of Ghosts Ronald W. Hawker, 2007-10-01 The years between 1922 and 1961 often referred to as the Dark Ages of Northwest Coast art have largely been ignored by art historians and dismissed as a period of artistic decline Tales of Ghosts compellingly reclaims this era arguing that it was instead a critical period during which the art played an important role in public discourses on the status of First Nations people in Canadian society Hawker's insightful examination focuses on the complex functions that Northwest Coast objects such as the ubiquitous totem pole played during the period He demonstrates how these objects asserted the integrity and meaningfulness of First Nations identities while simultaneously resisting the intent and effects of assimilation enforced by the Canadian government's denial of land claims its ban of the potlatch and its support of assimilationist education Those with an interest in First Nations and Canadian history and art history anthropology museology and post colonial studies will be delighted by the publication of this major contribution to their fields

Out of the Basement Miranda Campbell, 2013-04-18 Soulja Boy Justin Bieber and Tavi Gevinson are hardly representative of typical youth experiences but their origins highlight many of the realities of youth doing independent creative work Out of the Basement profiles the variety of youth cultural production in the twenty first century and asks what has or has not changed as youth attempt to make a living from creative works Though any young person with a laptop might have greater means to make music films or publish writing than in the past the skills necessary to make a living in today's creative industries are not taught in schools young artists must find their own way out of their basements Integrating cultural studies media education and subculture studies Miranda Campbell profiles this process of navigation and negotiation one largely overlooked in discussions of creative economies through the life stories of young people who are building careers through cultural work She considers how existing policies can impede small scale cultural production and calls for more awareness and support of youth creative enterprise Moving between the structures directed toward creative life and the initiatives that young people produce themselves in the absence of relevant structures Out of the Basement offers a timely analysis of the rise of small scale creative employment

Art in Public Lambert Zuidervaart, 2010-11-15 This book examines fundamental questions about funding for the arts why should governments provide funding for the arts What do the arts contribute to daily life Do artists and their publics have a social responsibility Challenging questionable assumptions about the state the arts and a democratic society Lambert Zuidervaart presents a vigorous case for government funding based on crucial contributions the arts make to civil society He argues that the arts contribute to democratic communication and a social economy fostering the critical and creative dialogue that a democratic society needs Informed by the author's experience leading a non profit arts organisation as well as his expertise in the arts humanities and social sciences this book proposes an entirely new conception of the public role of art with wide ranging implications for education politics and cultural policy
