Urban Planning in a Changing World Robert Freestone, 2000 Urban planning in today's world is inextricably linked to the processes of mass urbanization and modernization which have transformed our lives over the last hundred years. Written by leading experts and commentators from around the world, this collection of original essays will form an unprecedented critical survey of the state of urban planning at the end of the millennium.

Automobility and the City in Twentieth-Century Britain and Japan Simon Gunn, Susan C. Townsend, 2019-08-22 Automobility and the City in Twentieth Century Britain and Japan is the first book to consider how mass motorization reshaped cities in Japan and Britain during the 20th century. Taking two leading motor cities, Nagoya and Birmingham, as their principal subjects, Simon Gunn and Susan C. Townsend show how cars changed the spatial form and individual experience of the modern city and reveal the similarities and differences between Japan and Britain in adapting to the motor age. The book has three main themes: the place of automobility in post-war urban reconstruction; the emerging conflict between the promise of mobility and personal freedom offered by the car and its consequences for the urban environment; the M-E dilemma and the extent to which the Anglo-Japanese comparison can throw light on fundamental differences in cultural understanding of the environment, urbanism, and the self. The result is the first comparative history of mass automobility and its environmental consequences between East and West.

Governing from Below Jefferey M. Sellers, 2002-03-04 Throughout the world, more policy making and the politics that shape it take place in the urban regions where most people live. This book draws on eleven case studies of similar but disparate urban regions in France, Germany, and the United States from the 1960s to the 1990s. It documents the growth of this urban governance and develops a pioneering analysis of its causes and consequences. It traces the origins to the expansion and devolution of policy making to local business mobilization and institutional interests in high-tech and service activities and the incorporation of local social movements. Nation-states shape the possibilities for this urban governance but operate increasingly as infrastructures for local initiatives. Where urban governance has succeeded in combining environmental quality and social inclusion with local prosperity, local officials have built on supportive infrastructures from higher levels: the local economy, civil society, and favourable positions in the global economy.

Routledge Library Editions: Economic Geography Various, 2021-06-23 The books in this set, originally published between 1968 and 1992, introduce the reader to the many lines of thought in the literature on economic geography and tie these various aspects together within the concept of the economy. As well as providing a comprehensive overview of the Western European economy since the Second World War and including specific studies and assessments of the Dutch and Italian economies these volumes examine the economic factors that have shaped cities and patterns of urbanization The State and the City Ted Robert Gurr, Desmond King, 1987-08-27 Many of the oldest and largest Western cities today are undergoing massive economic decline The State and the City deals with a key issue in the political economy of cities the role of the state Ted Robert Gurr and Desmond S King argue that theoreticians from both the left and the right have underestimated the significance of state action for cities Grounding theory in empirical evidence they argue that policies of the local and national state have a major impact on urban well being Gurr and King s analysis assumes modern states have their own interests institutional momentum and the capacity to act with relative autonomy Their historically based analysis begins with an account of the evolution of the Western state s interest in the viability of cities since the industrial revolution Their argument extends to the local level examining the nature of the local state and its autonomy from national political and economic forces Using cross national evidence Gurr and King examine specific problems of urban policy in the United States and Britain In the United States for example they show how the dramatic increases in federal assistance to cities in the 1930s and the 1960s were made in response to urban crises which simultaneously threatened national interests and offered opportunities for federal expansion of power As a result national and local states now play significant material and regulatory roles that can have as much impact on cities as all private economic activities A comparative analysis of thirteen American cities reflects the range and impact of the state s activities at the urban level Boston they argue has become the archetypical postindustrial public city half of its population and personal income are directly dependent on government spending While Gurr and King are careful to delineate the limits to the extent and effectiveness of state intervention they conclude that these limits are much broader than formerly thought Ultimately their evidence suggests that the continued decline of most of the old industrial cities is the result of public decisions to allow their economic fate to be determined in the private sector

Power and City Governance Alan DiGaetano, 1999 Public Policy and Political Institutions Frank

Hendriks, 1999-01-01 With this important collection Hardy Hanappi and Wolfram Elsner have brought together an outstanding volume that is likely to have its impact on the development of evolutionary economics Expansive in its scope the innovative contributions range from evolutionary and institutional mechanisms dynamic market complexity as well as ontological groundwork of the rapidly emerging new evolutionary economics science The book will be of great interest to academics students and researchers of evolutionary and institutional economics Kurt Dopfer University of St Gallen Switzerland
