Free Speech Beyond Words Mark V. Tushnet, Alan K. Chen, Joseph Blocher, 2020-02-15 A look at First Amendment coverage of music non representational art and nonsense The Supreme Court has unanimously held that Jackson Pollock s paintings Arnold Sch enberg s music and Lewis Carroll s poem Jabberwocky are unquestionably shielded by the First Amendment Nonrepresentational art instrumental music and nonsense all receive constitutional coverage under an amendment protecting the freedom of speech even though none involves what we typically think of as speech the use of words to convey meaning As a legal matter the Court's conclusion is clearly correct but its premises are murky and they raise difficult questions about the possibilities and limitations of law and expression Nonrepresentational art instrumental music and nonsense do not employ language in any traditional sense and sometimes do not even involve the transmission of articulable ideas How then can they be treated as speech for constitutional purposes What does the difficulty of that question suggest for First Amendment law and theory And can law resolve such inquiries without relying on aesthetics ethics and philosophy Comprehensive and compelling this book represents a sustained effort to account constitutionally for these modes of speech While it is firmly centered in debates about First Amendment issues it addresses them in a novel way using subject matter that is uniquely well suited to the task and whose constitutional salience has been underexplored Drawing on existing legal doctrine aesthetics and analytical philosophy three celebrated law scholars show us how and why speech beyond words should be fundamental to our understanding of the First Amendment Library Journal, 2001 Hard Travelin' Robert Santelli, Emily Davidson, 1999-11-19 In this book Guthrie's family and friends offer personal and often poignant recollections of his life Noted writers shed new light on the Guthrie legacy including an expanded appreciation of his impact on rock and roll

Sites of Popular Music Heritage Sara Cohen, Robert Knifton, Marion Leonard, Les Roberts, 2014-08-27

This volume examines the location of memories and histories of popular music and its multiple pasts exploring the different places in which popular music can be situated including the local physical site the museum storeroom and exhibition space and the digitized archive and display space made possible by the internet. Contributors from a broad range of disciplines such as archive studies popular music studies media and cultural studies leisure and tourism sociology museum studies communication studies cultural geography and social anthropology visit the specialized locus of popular music histories and heritage offering diverse set of approaches. Popular music studies has increasingly engaged with popular music histories exploring memory processes and considering identity collective and cultural memory and notions of popular culture's heritage values yet few accounts have spatially located such trends to focus on the spaces and places where we encounter and engender our relationship with popular music's history and legacies. This book offers a timely re-evaluation of such sites reinserting them into the narratives of popular music and offering new perspectives on their function and significance within the production of popular music heritage. Bringing together recent research based on extensive fieldwork from scholars of popular music studies cultural sociology and museum studies alongside the new insights of practice based considerations of current practitioners within the field of popular music heritage this is the first collection to address the interdisciplinary interest in situating popular music histories heritages and pasts. The book will therefore appeal to a wide and growing academic readership focused on issues of heritage cultural memory and popular music and provide a timely intervention in a field of study that is engaging scholars from across a broad spectrum of disciplinary backgrounds and theoretical perspectives.
