Shanghai Transformation And Modernization Under Chinas Open Policy:

Shanghai Yue-man Yeung,1996 As China s largest city best known for its pre eminent achievements in the early part of the twentieth century Shanghai grew modestly in comparison with southern China after the adoption of China s open policy in 1978 With the 1990 announcement of Pudong as an area for special development Shanghai has raced ahead seemingly on its way to an economic and cultural resurgence that is likely to accelerate development and modernization in the Yangzi Delta and China at large This volume focuses on the physical and socioeconomic transformation of Shanghai across a wide range of topics Drawing on the experience and expertise of researchers primarily in Hong Kong this study is a major contribution to the subject of economic development and social change in China It seeks to understand analyze and interpret how Shanghai has transformed itself in recent years China and Its Regions Mary-Françoise Renard,2002-01-01 In 20 years of reform in China the key development has been the opening up of the market to foreign trade and international investment Developing a Competitive Pearl River Delta in South China Under One Country-two Systems Anthony G. O. Yeh,2006-01-01 This book will be of great interest to those doing business in the Pearl River Delta and China more broadly It is also of relevance to readers in China studies development studies economic development geography politics sociology environmental management and regional development Upgrading China's Information and Communication Technology Industry Cassandra C. Wang,2013 This book effectively challenges the conventional wisdom regarding the cluster innovation relationship and provides convincing evidence to show that the prevailing theoretical models derived from AngloOCoAmerican experiences cannot be uncritically applied to Chinese reality This book introduces a new theory of state firm coordination to explain why and how some Chinese ICT firms have turned out to be more innovative than others Perspectives from the viewpoint of economic geography institutional economics political science and regulation theory have been provided to throw light on the enigma that is China s ICT industry Empirically the book provides state of the art findings to clarify the confusion and misunderstanding about the exact nature of the ICT industry in China This book has essentially set a new baseline and made definitive contribution to knowledge production about China s economic geography Methodologically it shows how original critical and independent research can be undertaken effectively and innovatively through cross disciplinary theoretical interaction deductive reasoning with hypotheses testing combination of multiple means of data collection integration of quantitative and qualitative methods and structured presentation of research findings with extensive tabular graphic and cartographic illustrations The Making of Global City Regions Klaus Segbers,Simon Raiser,Krister Volkmann,2007 Publisher description Restructuring the Chinese City Laurence J.C. Ma,Fulong Wu,2004-08-02 A sea of change has occurred in China since the 1978 economic reforms Bringing together the work of leading scholars specializing in urban China this book examines what has happened to the Chinese city undergoing multiple transformations during the reform era with an emphasis on new processes of urban formation and the consequent reconstituted urban spaces With arguments against the convergence thesis that sees cities everywhere becoming more Western in form and suggestions that the Chinese city is best seen as a multiplex city Restructuring the Chinese City is an indispensable text for Chinese specialists urban scholars and advanced students in urban geography urban planning and China studies Urban Development in Post-Reform China Fulong Wu, Jiang Xu, Anthony Gar-On Yeh, 2006-12-05 This innovative book provides the first integrated treatment of China's market development state regulation and the resulting transformation and creation of new urban spaces New Economic Spaces in Asian Cities Peter W. Daniels, K.C. Ho, Thomas A. Hutton, 2012-04-27 The East and Southeast Asia region constitutes the world's most compelling theatre of accelerated globalization and industrial restructuring Following a spectacular realization of the industrialization paradigm and a period of services led growth the early twenty first century economic landscape among leading Asian states now comprises a burgeoning New Economy spectrum of the most advanced industrial trajectories including finance the knowledge economy and the new cultural economy In an agenda setting volume New Economic Spaces in Asian Cities draws on stimulating research conducted by a new generation of urban scholars to generate critical analysis and theoretical insights on the New Economy phenomenon within Asia New industry formation and the transformation of older economic practices constitute instruments of development as well as signifiers of larger processes of change expressed in the reproduction of space in the city Asia's major cities become the key staging areas for the New Economy driven by the growing wealth of an urban middle and professional class higher education institutions city based inter regional movements and urban mega projects New Economic Spaces in Asian Cities animates this New Economy discourse by means of vibrant storylines of instructive cities and sites including cases studies situated in cities such as Tokyo Seoul Shanghai Beijing Shenzhen and Singapore Theoretical and normative issues associated with the emergence of the new cultural economy are the subject of the book's context setting chapters and each case study presents an evocative narrative of development interdependencies and exemplary outcomes on the ground New Economic Spaces in Asian Cities offers a vivid contribution to our understanding of the ongoing transformation of Asia's urban system including the critical intersections of global and local regional dynamics in processes of new industry formation and the relayering of space in the Asian metropolis The synthesis of empirical profiles normative insights and theoretical reference points enhances the book's interest for scholars and students in fields of Asian studies urban and cultural studies and urban and economic geography as well as for policy specialists and urban community planners Colonial Frames, Nationalist Histories Mrinalini Rajagopalan, 2024-12-15 In recent years there has been a growing debate on the various ways that architecture and urbanism have served the triad of colonialism nationalism and modernity Some have argued that newly decolonized nations sought to represent their modernity through the spaces and symbols of their new national capitals while other scholars have stressed that while the forms and processes of architectural modernization have no doubt served as aids to various nation building projects it is the specific role of individual agents such as planners architects an emerging twentieth century bourgeois citizen or colonial administrators in this national project that needs attention However many such explorations of this subject have so far taken the form of monographs that concentrate on one city thereby limiting the scope required to address the broader questions at hand By juxtaposing case studies from various colonial and postcolonial settings from around the world this edited volume provides a comprehensive and diachronic investigation of the ways in which architecture and urban space mediate the intersections of colonialism nationalism and modernity Examining such spaces as archaeological sites memorials new buildings or historic urban fabric the book questions certain established dichotomies such as that of the imperial center and the colonized periphery the colonial past and the postcolonial present or the isolation of the national or local from the global Besides offering unique historical perspectives on colonialism nationalism and modernity each case study also reassesses theories regarding memory and monumentalization the appropriation and deployment of tradition in the service of nationalism and the institutions of modernity A common thread throughout the essays in this volume is a focus on new loci of power that emerge either in collision with colonial power structures or in collaboration with or those that emerge in the wake of decolonization While the authors recognize the presence of a larger structure of colonial hegemony they also investigate those centers of power that emerge in the interstices of crevices of colonial power Interdisciplinary and theoretically innovative this book offers a global perspective on colonial and national landscapes rewrites the master creator narrative examines national landscapes as sites of contestation and views the globalization of processes such as archaeology beyond the boundaries of the national

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior's Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays Developing China's West Yue-man Yeung, Jianfa Shen, 2004 From macro and micro perspectives this book provides a panoramic view of China's sprawling western region China's twelve western provinces are examined through several critical thematic dimensions Changing Lanes in China Eric Thun, 2006-01-16 This book addresses two of the most important trends in political economy during the last two decades globalization and decentralization in the context of the world's most rapidly growing economic power China The intent is to provide a better understanding of how local political and economic institutions shape the ability of Chinese state owned firms to utilize foreign direct investment FDI to remake themselves in the transition from inefficient and technologically backward firms into powerful national champions In a global economy the author argues local governments are increasingly the agents of industrial transformation at the level of the firm Local institutions are durable over time and they have important economic consequences Through an analysis of five Chinese regions the treatment seeks to specify the opportunities and constraints that alternative institutional structures create how they change over time and ultimately how they prepare Chinese firms for the challenge of global competition Chinese Science and Technology Industrial Parks Susan M. Walcott, 2017-11-30 Title first published in 2003 This book examines types of advanced technology Chinese districts set aside for developing products for national and global markets Culminating in a proposed best practice model for Chinese integration into global networks based on China's own particular political economy Cities in Post-Mao China Jae Ho Chung, 2005-06-21 This volume written by contributors from a number of different specialisms suggests that different combinations of factors have contributed to the relative successes and failures in these cities Endowment factors preferential policies and history have all proved to be important Most importantly Cities in Post Mao China suggests that locally generated strategies of development are crucial determinants This ground breaking volume reveals through close detail and broad coverage how exactly cities have been catalysts for China's economic development It will provide much needed data for those working in the fields of comparative politics development studies economic development and Asian studies

Institutions, Regulatory Styles, Society and Environmental Governance in China

Carlos Wing-Hung Lo, Shui-Yan Tang, 2013-08-15 During the past three decades of rapid industrial growth China has suffered from devastating environmental degradation Most scholarly and popular publications have painted a rather pessimistic picture about the worrisome trend Yet a somewhat more optimistic view has emerged in the past decade given the Chinese government's increased commitment to fighting industrial pollution the public's increased concerns regarding the adverse effects of pollution and domestic and international civil society's increased involvement in promoting environmental protection in China Drawing on the authors extensive research on Guangdong Province and a few large cities in other provinces this book provides an in depth study on China's environmental governance and regulatory enforcement in the past two decades Section 1 examines various institutional constraints for environmental regulation enforcement at the local level and how governance reform efforts in the past decade have contributed to the lessening of those constraints Section 2 draws on data derived from surveys and interviews conducted in multiple cities and times it examines the dominant regulatory enforcement styles of local environmental protection bureaus and how these styles vary across different regions and over time Section 3 examines how various stakeholders the general public environmental groups government entities and corporations affect the environmental governance process Overall the book presents a cautiously optimistic view on the evolution of environmental governance in China While highlighting many political institutional social and economic constraints it also documents many changes that have taken place including reform efforts from within the government administrative system increasingly societal concerns and actions and changing attitudes among corporate executives potentially paving the way for more effective environmental governance in the future

Gateways to Globalisation

François Gipouloux, 2011-01-01 Gateways to Globalisation makes a significant contribution to the understanding of the emerging East Asian regional system of financial centres within the broader global context and how they interact within the global circuits of finance In particular it focuses on the emergence of the financial centres of Tokyo Shanghai Hong Kong and Singapore and the attempts by both national governments and the private sector to position them so that they become more competitive in the global and regional context The volume shows much historical sensitivity showing that while the increase in the importance of these financial centres is principally post 1945 their emergence has been aided by the deep historical roots that go back several centuries The book will be of great value in the interpretation of the role of East Asia in what many commentators have called the Asian Century Terry McGee The University of British Columbia Canada Gateways to Globalisation cogently demonstrates that Hong Kong Singapore Beijing Shanghai and Tokyo operate as gateways to Asia and as linchpins for Asia to the global economy The authors theoretical frameworks and original empirical research support provocative findings that challenge conventional thinking Tokyo may decline as a global city As Beijing and Shanghai ride

China's rapid growth they face uncertainty about its future openness to the global economy Vibrant Hong Kong and Singapore confront challenges from other rising centers David Meyer Washington University in St Louis US This book distinguishes itself in its emphasis on historical and cultural links as well as contemporary globalization processes on large East Asian cities Arising from a research program and four seminars the editor has picked scholars who can relate past and present trends Historical links of Japanese cities are explored Leading world cities in the region are analysed in their evolution from entrepôts to modern gateways service integrators transport hubs and financial centres It is a study of the integration and interrelationships of East Asian cities in the global economy Yue man Yeung Chinese University of Hong Kong Asia's trading and financial hubs have become global cities which frequently have more in common and closer linkages with each other than with their corresponding hinterlands As this book expounds these global cities illustrate to what extent world trends deeply penetrate and permeate the national territorial interiors and processes that were otherwise presumed to be controlled by the State Gateways to Globalisation is soundly based on accurate and extensive research including perspectives from historians economists geographers and sociologists from China Japan Singapore and Hong Kong in order to grasp the regional character of trade and finance beyond national borders and traditional academic frameworks The book documents that today major urban centres such as Tokyo Beijing Singapore Hong Kong and Shanghai situated on the periphery of the maritime corridor of East Asia form a system characterised by the intensity of their economic linkages and integration into the world economy Since the mid 1980s these major Asian cities have become the worldwide oriented centres for production trade finance and research This collective effort offers in addition to its regional framework up to date information that strengthens an original trans disciplinary analysis of a region and its economic characteristics which will be of interest to readers within academia and beyond This well detailed and thorough work will interest academics and post graduate students in economics geography finance history regional studies and Asian studies as well as those who have a general interest in globalisation

Reshaping Economic Geography in East Asia Yukon Huang, Alessandro Magnoli

Bocchi, 2008-10-15 This companion volume to the World Development Report 2009 comprises twenty papers authored by noted Asian scholars These studies highlight how throughout East Asia spatial considerations have influenced Government policies at the national regional and local levels Key themes include how countries have dealt with 1 agglomeration economies urbanization and regional disparities 2 improving connectivity with infrastructure investments and 3 eliminating barriers across and within countries to favor the movement of labor goods and services Achievements vary widely across countries while some succeeded in enhancing competitiveness and improving social outcomes others are experiencing increasing inequalities and failures to spur growth in disadvantaged areas The book highlights many examples of how the new economic geography is reshaping development objectives from initiatives to foster growth via enhanced agglomeration and improved local connectivity to the world economy to special decentralization programs that channel resources to lagging regions This volume will be of great interest to readers working in the areas of economic policy poverty reduction and urban rural development strategies and transport led infrastructure policy Globalization and Networked Societies Yue-man Yeung, 2000-07-01 The world in the last two decades of the twentieth century fundamentally and radically changed at a speed and on a scale never before witnessed The challenge posed at the beginning of the third millennium is enormous for governments and people the world over Globalization along with globalism continues its unrelenting and accelerating march as it draws more countries cities and people closer into interdependent relationships Globalization and Networked Societies attempts to tease out some of the salient elements of this process especially as it has affected urban centers in Pacific Asia over the past twenty years Globalization and rapid economic growth have transformed the region and its cities on varied spatial scales bringing new opportunities and challenges for governments the private sector and individuals All countries in Pacific Asia are covered in this work with special attention given to Hong Kong and to China a late bloomer in the Asia scene but nevertheless one that has experienced phenomenal growth and accelerated globalization in recent decades The empirical analyses reveal the outcome dilemmas and meanings of globalization in the urban regional scene The Dual Developmental State Ming Xia, 2017-12-01 This title was first published in 2000 The developmental state model which originated in Japan has ascended to the status of the leading paradigm for the East Asian political economy This text explores the proposition of many specialists that China has emulated the model and become part of the flying geese pattern of development Mega Urban Projects in China Yanpeng Jiang, 2022-11-14 This book is the first systematic account of mega urban projects in China covering their construction operation and planning It is a detailed examination of the planning and construction of Hongqiao and its impact on local residents In short the aim of this book is to examine the process of planning and development of the Hongqiao transportation and commercial zone to explore its relationship to urban development and spatial restructuring in Shanghai and in doing so to comment on and critique the nature of urban change in contemporary China which is characterized as property and infrastructure driven Mega urban projects are arguably the quintessential symbol of entrepreneurial urbanism and it is no coincidence that they have become a familiar part of the urban scene throughout the world not least in East Asia They can be seen as both a consequence of and a response to the deindustrialization of leading cities first in North America and Europe and then in East Asia as economies transitioned to globalized neoliberalism This book provides a comprehensive overview of the main features of the land based urban growth coalition formed in Hongqiao by introducing the detailed picture of the Hongqiao project and it outlines the recent example of the competitive rush to urban projects in China s largest cities that has led to the proliferation of new financial districts in Beijing and Guangzhou
