Napoleons Marshals:

Napoleon's Marshals R. F. Delderfield, 2002-03-04 Napoleon's Marshals led the troops of France in battles across Europe from 1804 to 1815 A mixed group of twenty six men some of the Marshals came from aristocratic backgrounds some had originally pursued tradesmen careers as drapers and bakers and others rose from total poverty to hold the highest positions in the empire below the emperor himself Delderfield's exciting chronicle of these men and their battles tells of their origins their elevation under the rule of Napoleon the kingships achieved by some and the betrayals of others and the Marshals changing relationship with their leader as the fortunes of the empire rose and fell Napoleon's Marshals R. M. Keefe, 2015-11-06 This monograph offers a new perspective on an old subject That is why did Napoleon's marshals so successful in corps command fail when given an independent army command It examines in detail the defeats of Marshal Nicolas Charles Oudinot at Gross Beeren Marshal Etienne MacDonald at Katzbach and Marshal Michel Ney at Dennewitz Many authors have speculated why these marshals failed in independent tactical command They have offered such reasons as lack of talent lack of guidance from Napoleon or the failure to understand the nature of Napoleonic warfare While these reasons are valid they are contributing factors rather than the primary reason for the failure of Napoleon's marshals A thorough analysis of Napoleon's Correspondences for the period 10 August through 8 September 1813 reveals that Napoleon did provide adequate guidance to his subordinate commanders A detailed study of the actions of all three marshals in both movement to and conduct during battle reveals that they in fact understood the nature of Napoleonic warfare Certainly lack of talent was not the problem as each had been very successful in combat for twenty two years The primary reason that these marshals failed was their inability to command and control their forces Lack of adequate staffs and an inability to make the intellectual leap from corps to army command proved to be their downfall The March of the Twenty-six Ronald
