Raised Up Down South:

Raised Up Down Yonder Angela McMillan Howell, 2013-11-08 Raised Up Down Yonder attempts to shift focus away from why black youth are problematic to explore what their daily lives actually entail Howell travels to the small community of Hamilton Alabama to investigate what it is like for a young black person to grow up in the contemporary rural South What she finds is that the young people of Hamilton are neither idly passing their time in a stereotypically languid setting nor are they being corrupted by hip hop culture and the perils of the urban North as many pundits suggest Rather they are dynamic and diverse young people making their way through the structures that define the twenty first century South Told through the poignant stories of several high school students Raised Up Down Yonder reveals a group that is often rendered invisible in society Blended families football sagas crunk music expanding social networks and a nearby segregated prom are just a few of the fascinating juxtapositions Howell uses personal biography historical accounts sociolinguistic analysis and community narratives to illustrate persistent racism class divisions and resistance in a new context She addresses contemporary issues such as moral panics regarding the future of youth in America and educational policies that may be well meaning but are ultimately misguided

History and Memory in African-American Culture Genevieve Fabre, Robert O'Meally, 1994-12-08 As Nathan Huggins once stated altering American history to account fully for the nation s black voices would change the tone and meaning the frame and the substance of the entire story Rather than a sort of Pilgrim s Progress tale of bold ascent and triumph American history with the black parts told in full would be transmuted into an existential tragedy closer Huggins said to Sartre s No Exit than to the vision of life in Bunyan The relation between memory and history has received increasing attention both from historians and from literary critics In this volume a group of leading scholars has come together to examine the role of historical consciousness and imagination in African American culture The result is a complex picture of the dynamic ways in which African American historical identity constantly invents and transmits itself in literature art oral documents and performances Each of the scholars represented has chosen a different site of memory from a variety of historical and geographical points and from different ideological theoretical and artistic perspectives Yet the book is unified by a common concern with the construction of an emerging African American cultural memory The renowned group of contributors including Hazel Carby Werner Sollors V v Clark Catherine Clinton and Nellie McKay among others consists of participants of the five year series of conferences at the DuBois Institute at Harvard University from which this collection originated Conducted under the leadership of Genevieve Fabre Melvin Dixon and the late Nathan Huggins the conferences and as a result this book represent something of a cultural moment themselves and scholars and students of American and African American literature and history will be richer as a result
