place during parts of the Archaic and Woodland periods or between roughly 4000 1000 years ago when denser populations existed but use began as early as the Paleoindian Period about 13 000 9000 years ago and ended in the Historic or Protohistoric periods when colonists and Native Americans mined chert for gunflints and sharpening stones or abrasives From the procurement systems approach common in the 1980s and 1990s archaeologists can now employ a landscape approach to quarry studies in tandem with Geographic Information Systems GIS computer mapping and digital analysis Light and RADAR LiDAR airborne laser scanning for recording topography or high resolution satellite imagery Authors Dowd and Trubitt show how sites functioned in a broad landscape context which site locations or raw material types were preferred and why what cultures were responsible for innovative or intensive quarry resource extraction as well as how land use changed over time Besides discussions of the way that industrialists used natural resources to change their technology by means of manufacture trade and exchange examples are given of heritage sites that people can visit in the United States and Canada
