Down To The Sea Arthur Webster, 2012-02-17 For those who go down to sea in ships life has always been exciting but ever dangerous Brutally treated under paid and subjected to greed of the ship owners and misguided government policies that conspired to keep the seaman in a condition of poverty and near slavery Change only came about with the advent of the of the Maritime Unions and World War II But no sooner had the war ended conditions on American Merchant vessels began to revert the old ways The ship owners with Government acquiescence began to register their fleets under foreign flags in an attempt to break the power of the maritime unions This activity give rise to the continual and bloody labor disputes of the 60's and 70's Those prolonged lockouts and strikes were finally responsible for the virtual demise of the Merchant Marine So ended the dream for we who love the sea and had made it our lives

Going Down to the Sea Ko-lin Chin, 2014-03-15 In Chongqing Ling Ling had been a waitress earning twenty five dollars a month a few years later in Hong Kong she was making six times that each day Kelly taught preschool in Beijing for ten years before moving to LA and opening a brothel. These are just two of the eighteen Chinese women interviewed in this book about how they came to sell sex in Hong Kong, Macau, Taipei, Bangkok, Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Jakarta, Los Angeles, and New York. The women's candid stories put a human face on globalized commercial sex and offer a raw inside view of the money-driven transnational sex industry. The author, an expert in the field of criminal justice, frames these personal accounts with contextual details and incisive commentary to provide a rich understanding of the realities and myths of prostitution and global sex trafficking. Every year the United States alone spends hundreds of millions on programs to combat human trafficking and rescue trafficked victims. But what do sex workers themselves have to say about these issues? These eighteen interviews were gathered as part of an extensive research project for the author's 2012 book Selling Sex Overseas. With the publication of these full unvarnished accounts, we are now able to hear firsthand how and why these women left China to work in the sex trade abroad, how much they make, what hardships they face, and what hopes they have for the future. What Others Are Saying: Ko Lin's in-depth fieldwork has set a new standard for nuanced sociological inquiry into thorny social issues. The women he interviews deserve not judgment but understanding of the complex circumstances and challenges they face. Through sheer tenacity and painstaking documentation, Ko Lin allows us to see for ourselves the human stories behind each veiled entrance and every dimly lit doorway. Sheldon Zhang, San Diego State University. Ambitious in global scope while staying focused on individual stories, this book vividly and poignantly reveals the impact of anti-trafficking laws and campaigns on the everyday experiences of Chinese sex workers overseas and illuminates the ways these policies imperil the very people they purport to assist. Tiantian Zheng, Professor Anthropology. Highlights: Stories of life in the transnational sex trade told by the women themselves. Details on the inner workings of the sex industry. Interviews collected and presented by an expert on Asian criminal networks. On the ground perspectives on transnational sex trafficking.
