Current Topics in Coronary Research Colin Bloor,2013-03-09 How can you adequately honor a man of deeds with mere words Dr Donald Eaton Gregg is recognized throughout the scientific world for his distinguished contributions to our knowledge of the coronary circulation his advances in experimental instrumentation and design his scientific integrity and his lasting influence on other investigators His research associates over the years are now liberally scattered over the entire world Their accomplishments and activities reflect the quality of their training in his Department of Cardiorespiratory Diseases at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research The positions of prestige occupied by these men attest to Dr Gregg's ability to select and inspire men of talent yet in his usual modest way he insists that he was only fortunate to be in the right place at the right time Thus at the time of Dr Gregg's retirement as Chief of the Department of Cardiorespiratory Diseases a position he has held since 1950 his associates thought that a scientific symposium was the most appropriate way to honor a man of his stature Accordingly on March 29 30 1973 a Symposium on Current Topics in Coronary Research was held at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research Its objectives were to define our present state of knowledge and more importantly define the basic questions requiring further experimentation in four major areas of coronary research i e

Atterwill, C. E. Steele, 1987-10-22 The volume brings together the once disparate knowledge of cultural techniques and thus provides an important reference work for industrial and academic toxicologists. Recent Advances in Studies on Cardiac Structure and Metabolism Eörs Bajusz, George Rona, 1972 Nutrition and Heart Disease H.K. Naito, 2012-12-06 Entering the 1980s coronary heart disease (CHD) still remains the major cause of death in the United States and ranks second in the world in terms of CHD mortality rates. However, CHD mortality and morbidity rates in the United States have declined significantly since the 1950s. There are many reasons for this positive and encouraging change, one of which is the increasing awareness of the importance of the role of nutrition in health and disease. Diet has been identified as an important factor contributing to hyperlipidemia in individuals and populations. Dietary modification has become a routine means of treating patients with lipid disorders. The relationship between diet and chronic disease is however far from simple and at the present time needs further intensive research. Many significant advances have recently taken place in our understanding of the effect of different nutritional components on blood lipids and lipoproteins and on the initiation, progression and regression of atherosclerotic processes. This symposium: The 19th annual meeting of the American College of Nutrition, Cardiovascular Disease and Nutrition held at Bloomington, Minn. on June 1-2, 1978, addressed many of the important questions concerning the association of diet and CRD. We have not restricted the topic to hyperlipidemia and CHD per se but have considered cardiovascular disease in general. This monograph should be of interest to the dietitian, nutritionist, pediatric clinician, cardiologist, physicians in general and researchers in the field of cardiovascular disease. Herbert K. Naito, Ph.D.
