Irredentism Thomas Ambrosio,2001-09-30 The idea of national unification has long been a powerful mobilizing force for nationalist thinkers and ethnic entrepreneurs since the rise of nationalist ideology in the late 1700s This phenomenon came to be known as irredentism During the Cold War irredentist projects were largely subordinated to the ideological struggle between East and West After the Cold War however the international system has witnessed a proliferation of such conflicts throughout Europe and Asia Ambrosio integrates both domestic and international factors to explain both the initiation and settlement of irredentist conflicts His central argument is that irredentist states confront two potentially contradictory forces domestic nationalism and pressure from the international community Irredentist leaders are forced to reconcile their nationalist policies with pressures from the international plane At the same time irredentist leaders exploit perceived windows of opportunity in pursuit of their nationalist goals Ambrosio examines in depth the past present and possible irredentist projects of Serbia Croatia Hungary and Armenia within a theoretical and comparative framework His conclusions yield significant theoretical findings and important policy implications for both
