Educational Subnormality Sally Tomlinson, 2018-09-03 First published in 1981 Based on a three year study of children moving into special ESN M education in an English city in the mid 1970s this book questions the whole concept of mild educational subnormality by examining the criteria according to which professionals make decisions to place children within this stigmatised category It suggests that the beliefs that the professionals hold about the behavioural family and class characteristics of the children help to determine their judgements and that these beliefs are related to their own position within the social structure

Does Education Have a Future? Jarl Bengtsson, Albert van den Berg, Alain Gras, B.J. Hake, Ian Lister, Jürgen Zimmer, 2012-12-06 This volume has been prepared in the framework of Project 1 Educating Man for the 21st Century of Plan Europe 2000 sponsored by the European Cultural Foundation While most of the studies launched under this Project deal with specific aspects or levels of education the present volume attempts to provide a more global view of educational futures and their relationships to alternative futures of the overall socio economic system It should not be considered as a general integration or synthesis of the different studies of the Education Project of the European Cultural Foundation although it draws on them as well as other recently published documents Rather it should be regarded as one of several possible approaches analytical tools and incentives to the study and open discussion of educational problems seen in a long term perspective The volume is the result of a collective effort of a multinational team of researchers A colloquium of some sixty participants meeting at the University of York in October 1972 provided critiques and comments to the first version of the report But only the authors themselves claim responsibility for the methodology of the study and the opinions and conclusions expressed therein These do not necessarily reflect those of the sponsors of the volume the European Cultural Foundation and the Scientific Committee of its Education Project Such a synthesis will appear as the concluding report of the Project

The Origins of Human Potential Ken Richardson, 2002-09-26 Few scientific debates have been more protracted and intense than whether we are born with our cognitive ability whether our environment moulds it or whether these two things interact to produce it The Origins of Human Potential offers a new insight into the arguments by showing that many of the assumptions on both sides are false Ken Richardson re examines evidence about the nature of genes in development the environment and the development of cognitive ability and the nature of cognitive ability itself Can it really be measured in an IQ test like height or weight Ken Richardson s human centred view describes the evolutionary context of our dynamic changeable environments and the creative individual at the heart of the debate It will be of great relevance to psychologists and education policy makers and should be read by all those with an interest in our children s future

Psychology and Race Peter Watson, Since the problems of race relations are worldwide the international origins and perspectives of this excellent and timely book are especially advantageous More research has been done in the United States than elsewhere on the psychology of race relations so it is appropriate that a plurality of the chapters of this book are by American authors a stellar group that includes leading contributors to our contemporary knowledge of the topic Contributors from the English speaking Commonwealth countries are next in number followed by authors from the United Kingdom where race related issues have only recently become a salient concern of politics and social ethics The editor has assigned topics to his carefully chosen author experts not by country or region but by matching the expertise of each author against a need for coherent analysis of the important aspects of psychology and race Psychology and Race is divided into two major parts The first half of the book looks at the interracial situation itself The first section concentrates on the majority or dominant group and describes the development and measurement of racial awareness and prejudice and techniques for reducing prejudice the second section focuses on the reactions of subordinate or minority groups and the third deals with specific aspects of interpersonal interaction attitudes behavior and performance when the people concerned are of different races The book also looks at those areas of life where race is relevant and where psychology can help in an understanding of the situation The scope of this volume the distinction of its authors and the hardheaded sense of reality it brings to the discussion of these extremely complex issues will make it an invaluable resource not only for teachers and students but also for everyone concerned in any way with this most pressing issue of our times Peter Watson was deputy editor of The New Society and spent a total of four years with The London Sunday Times as part of their Insight Team He has written several books and since 1998 has been Research Associate at the Illicit Antiquities Research Centre located at the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research at the University of Cambridge United Kingdom

Community Work and Racism Ashok Ohri,Basil Manning,Paul Curno,2023-03-24 First published in 1982 Community Work and Racism takes as its theme the fundamental need of the black community in Britain to be freed from the disabling effects of white racism both in the individual and institutional forms Starting from the premise that racism is a white problem in Britain the book argues that community work must put white racism on everyone's local and national alliances in the fight against racism in British society. The contributors consider the response or lack of it there has so far been by white community work to racism and look at the state's response to racism as it impinges on community work. They discuss black community action and initiatives on racism, explore alliances which have come into being in the fight against racism and examine the conditions which make such alliances possible. This book will be of interest to students of sociology, public policy, race and ethnic studies.

Parents and Children in the Inner City Harriett Wilson, G.W. Herbert, 2012-12-06. This book was first published in 1978. The parents about whom the authors have written this book live in the poorest areas of a large city. They are widely dispersed; they do not know one another. There are certain features about their lives that bind them together and make them speak as if they had exchanged their views. Many come from large families and know the sorrows of premature death, disablement, stillbirth and unwanted pregnancy. This account of fifty-six families is an attempt to explore the interrelationship between the parents' circumstances and the difficulties encountered by their children.

Eugenics, Literature, and Culture in Post-war Britain Clare Hanson, 2013. This book explores eugenics in its wider social context and in literary representations in post-war Britain. Drawing on a wide range of sources in medicine, social and educational policy, genetics, popular science, science fiction and literary texts, Hanson tracks the dynamic interactions between eugenic ideas across diverse cultural fields, demonstrating the strength of the eugenic imagination. Challenging assumptions that eugenics was fatally compromised by its association with Nazi atrocities or that it petered out in the context of changed social attitudes in an egalitarian post-war society, the book demonstrates that eugenic thought not only persisted after 1945 but became more prominent. Throughout, eugenics is defined as a cultural movement rather than more narrowly as a science, and the study is focused on its border-crossing capacity as a style of thought. By tracing the expression of eugenic ideas across disciplinary boundaries and in both high and low culture, this book demonstrates the powerful and pervasive influence of eugenics in the post-war years. Authors visited include Raymond Williams, John Braine, Agatha Christie, Muriel Spark, Anthony Burgess, Doris Lessing and J.G. Ballard.

Racism and Discrimination in Britain Paul Gordon, Francesca Klug, 1984. The Scientific Study of General Intelligence Helmuth Nyborg, 2003-07-11. This book celebrates two triumphs in modern psychology: the successful development and application of a solid measure of general intelligence and the personal courage and skills of the man who made this possible, Arthur R. Jensen from Berkeley University. The volume traces the history of intelligence from the early 19th-century approaches to the most recent analyses of the hierarchical structure of cognitive abilities and documents the transition from a hopelessly confused concept of intelligence to the development of an objective measure of psychometric g. The contributions illustrate the impressive power g has with respect to predicting educational achievement, getting an attractive job or social stratification. The book is divided into six parts as follows: Part I presents the most recent higher stream analysis of cognitive abilities; Part II deals with biological aspects of g, such as research on brain imaging, glucose uptake working memory reaction time inspection time and other biological correlates and concludes with the latest findings in g related molecular genetics Part III addresses demographic aspects of g such as geographic race and sex differences and introduces differential psychological aspects as well Part IV concentrates on the g nexus and relates such highly diverse topics as sociology genius retardation training education jobs and crime to g Part V contains chapters critical of research on g and its genetic relationship and also presents a rejoinder Part VI looks at one of the greatest contemporary psychologists Professor Emeritus Arthur R Jensen as teacher and mentor
