The Race Question in Canada André Siegfried, 1968 The Race Question in Canada Andre Siegfried, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1907 edition Excerpt CHAPTER XXXIII POLITICAL IMPERIALISM continued IL THE ERA OF DIFFICULTIES The Transvaal War had brought the tone of British patriotism to a pitch of exaltation at which it could not maintain itself for long Peace re-established the atmosphere became cleared again Henceforward it is to be no longer feeling but interest that shall determine the attitude of parties towards the already less burning subject of Imperialism The French Canadians retain the sentiments that they have cherished all along but that M Bourassa alone or almost alone has ventured to express Loyal subjects of the Crown they declare themselves satisfied with the present but for this very reason opposed to all change They recognise that they owe certain duties to England but admit none at all to the Empire Sentimental arguments such as the English invoke are the very last to appeal to them for their loyalty is the fruit of careful reasoning and the glories of the British name have absolutely no interest for them What they have at heart is the maintenance of their autonomy and the confirmation of the liberties which they have won after a century of struggling Anyone who will not begin by reassuring them on this point will find them resolute opponents From whatever point of view they look at it Imperialism either frightens them or leaves them indifferent Is it a commercial union that is in question Devoting themselves chiefly to agriculture and the learned professions they do not give the first place in their thoughts to economic problems What they desire most is to have a free hand and the idea of a Zollverein does not attract them for by it they would lose their independence in regard to customs duties A policy of Treaties of Commerce does not

RACE QUESTION IN CANADA., 2003 Comparing Canada Martin Papillon, Luc Turgeon, Jennifer Wallner, Stephen White, 2014-09-15 Debating how Canada compares both regionally and in relation to other countries is a national pastime This book examines how political scientists apply diverse comparative strategies to better understand Canadian political life Using a variety of methods the contributors use comparison to examine topics as diverse as Indigenous rights Canadian voting behaviour activist movements climate policy and immigrant retention While the theoretical perspectives and kinds of questions asked vary greatly as a whole they demonstrate how the art of comparing is an important strategy for understanding Canadian identity politics political mobilization political institutions and public policy Ultimately this book establishes how adopting a more systematic comparative outlook is essential not only to revitalize the study of Canadian politics but also to achieve a more nuanced understanding of Canada as a whole The Race

Question in Canada Siegfried André, 2022-10-27 Race and Racism Leo Driedger, Shiva Halli, 2000-04-03 Race and Racism brings together critical contributions from the academic and government sectors that analyse the nature and extent of racism in Canada The broad spectrum of social scientific approaches represented here sociology cultural anthropology demography and psychology and an equal emphasis on quantitative and qualitative methods make this study a particularly rich source for scholars and policy makers alike Discussion unfolds along four main themes concepts and theories relating to race including some treatment of measurement questions economic and social factors pertaining to race racism and discrimination as represented in opinion and popular perception measured in various ways and the dimensions of minority coping in major urban areas Race and Racism fills in many wavering lines on our cultural landscape and provides an important perspective on social policy for the twenty first century The Oxford Handbook of Ethnicity, Crime, and Immigration Sandra M. Interludes provides a comprehensive and unique overview of elections and voting in Canada from Confederation to the most recent election Its principal argument is that the Canadian political landscape has consisted of long periods of hegemony of a single party and or leader dynasties punctuated by short sharp disruptions brought about by the sudden rise of new parties leaders or social movements interludes This revised and updated second edition includes an analysis of the results of the 2011 and 2015 federal elections as well as an in depth discussion of the Harper Dynasty The Schematic State Debra Thompson, 2016-10-20 Invitation Orientation Transnational biological racialism The death and resurrection of race The multicultural moment The multiracial moment The future of counting by race Appendix A List of interviews archival sources

Duty to Dissent Geoff Keelan, 2019-11-01 During the First World War Henri Bourassa fierce Canadian nationalist politician and journalist from Quebec took centre stage in the national debates on Canada s participation in the war its imperial ties to Britain and Canada s place in the world In Duty to Dissent Geoff Keelan draws upon Bourassa s voluminous editorials in Le Devoir the newspaper he founded in 1910 to trace Bourassa s evolving perspective on the war s meaning and consequences What emerges is not a simplistic sketch of a local journalist engaged in national debates as most English Canadians know him but a fully rendered portrait of a Canadian looking out at the world By situating Bourassa within a larger panorama that connects him to prominent war resisters from around the globe Keelan offers fresh insight into one of Canada s most influential historical figures reshaping our understanding of why Quebec s position on the Great War differed so radically from the rest of Canada

Girl Trouble Joan Sangster, 2002 The book examines the history of female delinquency in Canada from the initial years of the Juvenile Delinquents Act passed in 1908 to the first major sustained critiques of the Act s usefulness in the 1960s Three themes are explored What underlying material structures social conditions and class norms shaped the very definition of delinquency under the Juvenile Delinquents Act and how was that definition gendered What were the prescribed legal and social cures for girls wrongdoing and how successful were they Last how did girls and their families understand and react to their designation as delinquent and to their experiences in court probation and training school To understand girls conflicts with the law their delinquency is described within the daily lived economic and social circumstances of their lives and contemporary understandings of normal and deviant behaviour and illustrated by quotations and examples drawn from records and interviews The experiences of Native and immigrant girls are also examined

Contours of Canadian Thought A.B. McKillop, 1987-12-15 The leaps of knowledge in nineteenth century science shook the foundations of religious and humanistic values throughout much of the world The Darwinian Revolution and similar developments presented enormous philosophical challenges to Canadian scientists philosophers and men of letters Their responses many and varied form a central theme in this collection of essays by one of Canada s leading intellectual historians McKillop explores the thought of a number of English Canadian thinkers from the 1860s to the 1920s decades that saw Canada s entry into the modern age We meet Daniel Wilson an educator and ethnologist for whom the pursuit of science was a form of poetic engagement requiring the poet's sensibilities John Watson one of the world's leading exponents of objective idealism whose philosophical premises helped to undermine the very religious tradition he sought to bolster and William Dawson LeSueur an apostle of Positivism whose spirited defence of critical inquiry and evolutionary social ethics led him towards an entirely contradictory position In addition to profiles of individuals McKillop considers the ways in which their ideas operated in the context of Canadian institutions including the universities and the press From these perspectives emerges a detailed analysis of the life of the mind of English Canada in an age of questioning of doubt and of struggle to reorient the intellectual and philosophical positions of a quickly changing society

Racial Attitudes in English-Canadian Fiction, 1905-1980 Terrence Craig, 2010-10-30 Racial Attitudes in English Canadian Fiction is a critical overview of the appearances and consequences of racism in English Canadian fiction published between 1905 and 1980 Based on an analysis of traditional expressions in literature of group solidarity and resentment the study screens English Canadian novels for fictional representations of such feelings Beginning with the English Canadian reaction to the mass influx of immigrants into Western Canada after World War One it examines the fiction of novelists such as Ralph Connor and Nellie McClung The author then suggests that the cumulative effect of a number of individual voices such as Grove and Salverson constituted a counter reaction which has been made more positive by Laurence Lysenko Richler and Clarke The debate between these two sides carried on in fictional and non fictional writing is seen to be in part resolved in synthesis after World War Two as attitudes are forced by wartime alliances and intellectual pressures into a qualified liberalism The author shows how single novels by Graham Bodsworth and Callaghan demonstrated a new concern for the exposure and eradication of racial discrimination an attitude taken further by the works of Wiebe and Klein The book concentrates on single texts that best portray deliberately or not racist ideology or anti racist arguments and attempts to explain the arousal in Canada of such ideas
