Racial Encounter:

Racial Encounter Kevin Durrheim, John Dixon, 2013-05-13 The political and legislative changes which took place in South Africa during the 1990s with the dissolution of apartheid created a unique set of social conditions As official policies of segregation were abolished people of both black and white racial groups began to experience new forms of social contact and intimacy By examining these emerging processes of intergroup contact in South Africa and evaluating related evidence from the US Racial Encounter offers a social psychological account of desegregation It begins with a critical analysis of the traditional theories and research models used to understand desegregation the contact hypothesis and race attitude theory It then analyzes every day discourse about desegregation in South Africa showing how discourse shapes individuals conception and management of their changing relationships and acts as a site of ideological resistance to social change The connection between place identity and re creation of racial boundaries emerge as a central theme of this analysis This book will be of interest to social psychologists students of intergroup relations and all those interested in post apartheid South Africa

Promoting Racial Literacy in Schools Jr. Stevenson, Howard C. Stevenson, 2014-01-03 Based on extensive research this provocative volume explores how schools are places where racial conflicts often remain hidden at the expense of a healthy school climate and the well being of other students of colour Most schools fail to act on racial microaggressions because the stress of negotiating such conflicts is extremely high due to fears of incompetence public exposure and accusation Instead of facing these conflicts head on schools perpetuate a set of avoidance or coping strategies The author of this much needed book uncovers how racial stress undermines student achievement Students educators and social service support staff will find workable strategies to improve their racial literacy skills to read recast and resolve racially stressful encounters when they happen This book features a model that applies culturally relevant behavioural stress management strategies to problem solve racial stress in schools examples demonstrating workable solutions relevant within predominantly White schools for students parents teachers and administrators measurable outcomes and strategies for developing racial literacy skills that can be integrated into the K 12 curriculum and teacher professional development and teaching and leadership skills that will create a more tolerant and supportive school environment for all students Dismantling

Racism Tina M. Harris, 2023-10-10 Dismantling Racism One Relationship at a Time inspires and challenges readers to think critically about racism and its impact on themselves and others in complex and nuanced ways With a commitment to an inverted approach to racism Tina M Harris trickle down theory illustrates the interconnection between racist ideologies and interracial relationships The example of interracial romantic relationships as an illustration of how societal attitudes dictate interracial relationships shows how trickle down theory brings to the surface a person's and society's true attitudes about race The theory further demonstrates how all of our interpersonal connections are a testament of racial socialization processes and how we manage our interracial interactions and relationships Celebrating the power of interracial communication to dismantle forms of systemic oppression the book provides essential vocabulary for both societal misconceptions and transformative practices of interpersonal conversation The book culminates in the racial intentionality roadmap RaIR a self reflexive guide to immediately and repeatedly identifying ways to help eradicate racism in all the spaces we occupy Ultimately Dismantling Racism challenges readers to develop authentic organic interracial relationships that translate into changes in systems that perpetuate racial division

The Influence of Race and Racial Identity in Psychotherapy Robert T. Carter, 1995 A revolutionary theory a clinical watershed a masterful text The Influence of Race and Racial Identity in Psychotherapy Robert T Carter changes the course of a century of psychological theory practice and education He debunks the traditional belief that race has a marginal impact on personality development and with compelling empirical evidence demonstrates that race is the defining factor above other experiences of living in the United States and a crucial ingredient in the therapeutic process Carter presents models of racial identity for all racial groups and offers numerous case studies of various psychosocial resolutions within racial groups He constructs the first racially inclusive model of psychotherapy a rigorous conceptual framework that affords clinicians a deeper awareness of how racial issues affect their dealings with patients and creates a means of integrating that knowledge into their practices The Influence of Race and Racial Identity in Psychotherapy Defines the decisive role of racial identity in personality development Presents a racially inclusive model of psychotherapy Describes how this model is applied in a clinical context Proposes new counselor training programs based on this model This immensely valuable text helps students in multicultural counseling and psychotherapy develop an awareness of their own levels of racial identity as well as those of their patients For practicing therapists it opens new vistas in the therapeutic process and provides new avenues through which to better understand and serve their patients

Is That Your Mom? Cyndy R. Snyder, 2017-05-01 While White parents raising Black children has become increasingly salient in the last 20 30 years the experience of those who grow up in these cross racial families is much more complicated Indeed much of the adoption studies literature has privileged White parent voices further silencing crossracially raised Black identified children Is That Your Mom challenges the dominant narrative that love trumps race and racism in family dynamics and reasserts the need for critical voices of those most impacted by being cross racially raised the very people who face extreme racism that is both similar to and uniquely different from that faced by people of color more broadly Is That Your Mom centers the voices of Cross Racially Raised individuals of the African Diaspora to illustrate that racial socialization is a process in which individuals have agency in their racial development In this book Cross Racially Raised adults both those who were adopted and those who were raised in cross racial birth families share their stories regarding experiences with racism in the following three ways 1 encounters with racism within and beyond educational settings 2 perceptions of parents or guardians efforts toward racial socialization and 3 strategies used to navigate racially hostile environments which sometimes are the families themselves The voices of the individuals in this book illuminate a deeper conceptual understanding of how racial socialization practices are linked with one's ability to cope with racism and ways of addressing racism particularly among those families that contradict monoracial assumptions of racial socialization processes The book concludes with a discussion of how schools educators and parents can help Cross Racially Raised children and youth develop skills necessary to cope and remain resilient in the face of racism particularly if the immediate family is not offering those supports

Racial Baggage Sylvia Zamora, 2022-07-26 Upon arrival to the United States Mexican immigrants are racialized as simultaneously non White and illegal This racialization process complicates notions of race that they bring with them as the pigmentocracy of Mexican society in which their skin color may have afforded them more privileges within their home country collides with the American racial system Racial Baggage examines how immigration reconfigures U S race relations illuminating how the immigration experience can transform understandings of race in home and host countries Drawing on interviews with Mexicans in Los Angeles and Guadalajara sociologist Sylvia Zamora illustrates how racialization is a transnational process that not only changes immigrants themselves but also everyday understandings of race and racism within the United States and Mexico Within their communities and networks that span an international border Zamora argues immigrants come to define race in a way distinct from both the color conscious hierarchy of Mexican society and the Black White binary prevalent within the United States In the process their stories demonstrate how race is not static but rather an evolving social phenomenon forever altered by immigration

Measuring the Effects of Racism Robert T. Carter, Alex L. Pieterse, 2020-07-21 A large body of research has established a causal relationship between experiences of racial discrimination and adverse effects on mental and physical health In Measuring the Effects of Racism Robert T Carter and Alex L Pieterse offer a manual for mental health professionals on how to understand assess and treat the effects of racism as a psychological injury Carter and Pieterse provide guidance on how to recognize the psychological effects of racism and racial discrimination They propose an approach to understanding racism that connects particular experiences and incidents with a person's individual psychological and emotional response They detail how to evaluate the specific effects of race based encounters that produce psychological distress and possibly impairment or trauma Carter and Pieterse outline therapeutic interventions for use with individuals and groups who have experienced racial trauma and they draw attention to the importance of racial awareness for practitioners The book features a racial trauma assessment toolkit including a race based traumatic stress symptoms scale and interview schedule Useful for both scholars and practitioners including social workers educators and counselors Measuring the Effects of Racism offers a new framework of race based traumatic stress that helps legitimize psychological reactions to experiences of racism

Racial Trauma in the School System Connesia Handford, Ariel D. Marrero, 2021-08-17 Racial Trauma in the School System provides foundational and clinical information for school based mental health professionals to better understand and address the nuanced experience of racial trauma in their school The book focuses on conceptualizing racial trauma and the impact it has on a child's development and academic functioning providing information on how to look at racially based experiences through a trauma informed lens Examining a wide range of racial and ethnic identities chapters explore critical issues such as ethno racial identity development and diagnostic classifications to help readers develop a conceptual lens to guide their approach The clinical application of theory to practice is emphasized using complex case studies and the explanation of practical interventions This text is the first of its kind to focus exclusively on discussing the impact of racial trauma on children and to discuss the intersection between identity and racism in the school system Geared toward school based professionals this book considers racial trauma across a wide range of contexts and clinical presentations for other mental health professionals to adapt and apply the content to their clinical practice The Idea of Race Robert Bernasconi, Tommy Lee Lott, 2000-01-01

A survey of the historical development of the idea of race this anthology offers pre twentieth century theories about the concept of race classic twentieth century sources reiterating and contesting ideas of race as scientific and several philosophically relevant essays that discuss the issues presented A general Introduction gives an overview of the readings Headnotes introduce each selection Includes suggested further readings Rethinking Race and Identity in Contemporary British Fiction Sara Upstone, 2016-10-04

This book takes a post racial approach to the representation of race in contemporary British fiction re imagining studies of race and British literature away from concerns with specific racial groups towards a more sophisticated analysis of the contribution of a broad post racial British writing Examining the work of writers from a wide range of diverse racial backgrounds the book illustrates how contemporary British fiction rather than merely reflecting social norms is making a radical contribution towards the possible future of a positively multi ethnic and post racial Britain This is developed by a strategic use of the realist form which becomes a utopian device as it provides readers with a reality beyond current circumstances yet one which is rooted within an identifiable world Speaking to the specific contexts of British cultural politics and directly connecting with contemporary debates surrounding race and identity in Britain the author engages with a wide range of both mainstream and neglected authors including Ian McEwan Zadie Smith Julian Barnes John Lanchester Alan Hollinghurst Martin Amis Jon McGregor Andrea Levy Bernardine Evaristo Hanif Kureishi Kazuo Ishiguro Hari Kunzru Nadeem Aslam Meera Syal Jackie Kay Maggie Gee and Neil Gaiman This cutting edge volume explores how contemporary fiction is at the centre of re thinking how we engage with the question of race in twenty first century Britain Confronting Racism Robert T. Carter, Thomas D. Scheuermann, 2019-11-05 This book proposes a comprehensive approach to confronting racism through a foundational framework as well as practical strategies to correct and reverse the course of the past and catalyze the stalled efforts of the present It will do so by focusing on those specific aspects of law and legal theory that intersect with psychological research and practice In Part I the historical and current underpinnings of racial injustice and the obstacles to combating racism are introduced Part II examines the documented psychological and emotional effects of racism including race based traumatic stress In Part III the authors analyze the application of forensic mental health assessment in addressing race related experiences and present a legal and policy framework for reforming institutional and organizational policies Finally in part IV the authors advocate for a close collaborative approach among legal and mental health professionals and their clients to seek redress for racial discrimination

Confronting Racism provides a framework for legal mental health and other related social science professionals and leaders to acknowledge and act on the harmful aspects of our societal systems

Racial Formation in the United States Michael Omi,Howard Winant,1994 Discusses racial formation theory the idea that race is a constructed identity dependent upon social economic and political factors

The Routledge Companion to Race and Ethnicity Stephen M. Caliendo,Charlton D. McIlwain,2020-10-27 The second edition of The Routledge Companion to Race and Ethnicity offers readers a broad overview of scholarly exploration of the ways that humans have organized themselves and have been organized according to racial and ethnic divisions More than 80 scholars from around the world and representing multiple academic traditions contribute entries to this accessible yet sophisticated volume that addresses contemporary issues in historical context The first half of the book challenges readers to grapple with some of the most controversial aspects of categorization prejudice and discrimination through focused chapters ranging from the notion of Whiteness to the supposed biological rationale for racial categorization The second half is comprised of 70 shorter entries on specialized concepts persons and groups that are crucial to understanding these issues Taken as a whole this volume provides a broad multi disciplinary and global overview of issues that continue to provide challenges to notions of equality and justice

Race Struggles Theodore Koditschek, Sundiata Keita Cha-Jua, Helen A. Neville, 2009 The essays in this collection start with the premise that although race like class and gender is socially constructed all three categories have been shaped profoundly by their context in a capitalist society Race in other words is a historical category that develops not only in dialectical relation to class and gender but also in relation to the material conditions in which all three are forged In addition to discussing and analyzing various dimensions of the African American experience contributors also consider the ways in which race plays itself out in the experience of Asian Americans and in the very different geopolitical environments of the British Empire and postcolonial Africa Contributors are Pedro Caban Sundiata Keita Cha Jua David Crockett Theodore Koditschek Scott Kurashige Clarence Lang Minkah Makalani Helen A Neville Ibitola O Pearce David Roediger Monica M White and Jeffrey Williams

Trauma-Informed Supervision Carolyn Knight, L. DiAnne Borders, 2020-07-29 Survivors of trauma are disproportionately represented in agencies providing a broad range of behavioral social and mental health services Practitioners in these settings must understand and be able to respond to survivors of trauma in ways that are empowering normalize and validate their experiences and reactions and minimize the risk of retraumatization Practitioners also will be indirectly traumatized as a result of their work with trauma survivors Practitioners ability to help clients with histories of trauma depends upon clinical supervision that is trauma informed The trauma informed supervisor has the dual responsibility of enhancing supervisees skills as trauma informed practitioners and helping them manage the impact their work has on them Nevertheless many clinical supervisors only have limited knowledge and training in trauma and may not recognize either the needs of those whom they supervise or the clients their supervisees serve This book compiles important recommendations from trauma informed practitioners supervisors and researchers who share their professional reflections and personal stories based on their hands on experiences across mental health and medical contexts This book was originally published as a special issue of The Clinical Supervisor
