Racial Myth In English History Trojans Teutons And Anglosaxons:

Racial Myth in English History Hugh A. MacDougall, 1982 Myths of origin enable people to locate themselves in time and space They offer an explanation of the unknown and hallow traditions by linking them to heroic events and personages of the distant past In addition they form the ground for belief systems or ideologies which providing a moral validation for attitudes and activities bind men together in a society writes the author who in his interesting and solidly based short study synthesizes several generations of English and continental scholarship in a way that enables a broad readership to obtain a clearer recognition of those elements in accepted mythologies which both unite and divide men Published in English

Racial Myth in English History Hugh A. MacDougall, Race and Ethnicity in Anglo-Saxon Literature Stephen Harris, 2004-06-01 What makes English literature English This question inspires Stephen Harris s wide ranging study of Old English literature From Bede in the eighth century to Geoffrey of Monmouth in the twelfth Harris explores the intersections of race and literature before the rise of imagined communities Harris examines possible configurations of communities illustrating dominant literary metaphors of race from Old English to its nineteenth century critical reception Literary voices in the England of Bede understood the limits of community primarily as racial or tribal in keeping with the perceived divine division of peoples after their languages and the extension of Christianity to Bede s Germanic neighbours was effected in part through metaphors of family and race Harris demonstrates how King Alfred adapted Bede in the ninth century how both exerted an effect on Archbishop Wulfstan in the eleventh and how Old English poetry speaks to images of race English Ethnicity and Race in Early Modern Drama Mary Floyd-Wilson, 2003-02-20 In English Ethnicity and Race in Early Modern Drama first published in 2003 Mary Floyd Wilson outlines what we might call scientific conceptions of racial and ethnic differences in sixteenth and seventeenth century English writing Drawing on classical and contemporary medical texts histories and cosmographies Floyd Wilson demonstrates that Renaissance understandings of racial and ethnic identities contradicted many modern stereotypes concerning difference Southerners Africans in particular were identified as dispassionate cool tempered and wise whereas the more northern English were understood to be unruly impressionable and slow witted Concerned with the unflattering and constraining implications of this classically derived knowledge English writers laboured to reinvent ethnology to their own advantage a labour that paved the way for the invention of more familiar racial ideas Floyd Wilson highlights these English revisionary efforts in her surprising and transformational readings of the period s drama including Marlowe s Tamburlaine Jonson s The Masque of Blackness and Shakespeare s Othello and Cymbeline The Idea of Anglo-Saxon England in Middle English Romance Robert Allen Rouse, 2005 Using a variety of texts but the Matter of England romances in particular the author argues that they show a continued interest in the Anglo Saxon past from the localised East Sussex legend of King Alfred that underlies the twelfth century Proverbs of Alfred to the institutional interest in the Guy of Warwick narrative exhibited by the community of St Swithun s Priory in Winchester during the fifteenth century they are part of a continued cultural remembrance that encompasses chronicles folk memories and literature

Nation and Religion Peter van der Veer, Hartmut Lehmann, 2020-10-06 Does modernity make religion politically irrelevant Conventional scholarly and popular wisdom says that it does The prevailing view assumes that the onset of western modernity characterized by the rise of nationalism the dominance of capitalism and the emergence of powerful state institutions favors secularism and relegates religion to the purely private realm This collection of essays on nationalism and religion in Europe and Asia challenges that view Contributors show that religion and politics are mixed together in complex and vitally important ways not just in the East but in the West as well The book focuses on four societies India Japan Britain and the Netherlands It shows that religion and nationalism in these societies combined to produce such notions as the nation being chosen for a historical task imperialism for example the possibility of national revival and political leadership as a form of salvation The volume also examines the qualities of religious discourse and practice that can be used for nationalist purposes paying special attention to how religion can help to give meaning to sacrifice in national struggle The book s comparative approach underscores that developments in colonizing and colonized countries too often considered separately are subtly interrelated In addition to the editors the contributors are Benedict R Anderson Talal Asad Susan Bayly Partha

Foundation which examined the idea of Celticism in its European contexts from the eighteenth century to the present. Linguists, historians, cultural theorists and literary critics from a range of European countries addressed for the first time in a sustained way how the idea of Celticism developed and how it affected many aspects of European culture. A primary focus of the volume is James Macpherson's Ossian, now undergoing a re-estimation. Other topics which receive significant examination are Celticism as a force in cultural nationalism, Celticism in contemporary Christianity, primitivism, the image of the Celt in archaeology, historiography, political propaganda and the role of the idea of the Celtic in linguistic taxonomy. This pioneering work will be of interest to scholars and students in a wide range of subjects in which the nature, function and effect of cultural concepts and images are of central concern.
