Ellis, 1996-03-31 While many books have been written about human sexuality few have seriously explored the philosophical and psychological meaning of erotic love This reflects a bias and a problem in contemporary culture the misunderstanding of eros out of a theory of physiological drive reduction ignoring the countervailing motivation toward intensification rather than reduction of conscious feeling has led to an egocentric view of human nature which in turn motivates a simplistic hedonism in value thinking and an atomistic individualist conception of society The ultra competitive nature of this kind of culture leads to overconcern with masks of invulnerability i e narcissism which prevents the dropping of superficial defenses necessary for deep and authentic love relationships to mature But the intense direct experience of the intrinsic value of another being embodied in authentic love experiences is needed to combat the existential threats to the meaningfulness of life alienation powerlessness relative insignificance in the ultimate scheme and death This experience is motivated by the need to be pulled out of oneself into a non egocentric way of experiencing which cares as much about expressing value feelings in order to deepen and intensify them as it does about reducing egocentric drives The misunderstanding neglect and dysfunction of this basic human need thus reflects a serious problem in the psychology of the self and the structure of the community whose study requires a phenomenological rather than a merely empirical scientific approach since the latter approach alone leads almost inevitably to the very reductionism at issue The Publishers' Trade List Annual , 1979 Contemporary Authors New Revision John Jorgensen, Daniel Jones, 1997-11 In response to the escalating need for up to date information on writers Contemporary Authors New Revision Series brings researchers the most recent data on the world s most popular authors These exciting and unique author profiles are essential to your holdings because sketches are entirely revised and up to date and completely replace the original Contemporary Authors entries For your convenience a soft cover cumulative index is sent biannually Robert Lowell, a Reference Guide Steven Gould Axelrod, Helen Deese, 1982 The New York Times Book Review , 1965 The Publishers Weekly , 1971 AB Bookman's Weekly , 1997 The Troubling Play of Gender Maria Stadter Fox, 2001 Although these three modernist writers were not primarily playwrights as expatriates they were interested in the Euripidean theme of women in exile each independently chose to rewrite Euripides Hippolytus a play in which the protagonist is a woman in exile whose speech writing and passion are deeply problematic Each author approaches the Euripidean material in a different way Tsvetaeva focuses on gender in language Yourcenar explores the gendering of a self and H D performs the undoing of gendered oppositions BOOK JACKET Teaching about Women in the Foreign Languages Sidonie Cassirer, 1975 Female Studies , 1975 Catalog of Reprints in Series , 1958 Religious Books and Serials in Print 1978-1979
