Shenandoah Fall 2004:

What Gets Into Us , In What Gets Into Us the new collection of short stories by Moira Crone a curious child discovers that some believe the gods who made this world didn't make it right and they are terribly sorry about it A nine year old girl is the only one who realizes that her mother's mental illness has put the family's survival at stake A shy African American woman confronts evil directly in a terrifying act of love A teenage orphan replaces a wayward son in a privileged but unhappy family A young carpenter decides that if his baby is going to be born right he will have to commit a crime and build the world anew Fayton North Carolina is a rural town in which everyone knows everyone else's business Crone explores this fictional landscape and its inhabitants from many angles The stories follow the lives of men and women who grew up together in Fayton Full of memorable characters from several generations this story cycle evolves into a chronicle of a region and its characters Through it Crone meditates on the mix of history and spirit that shapes souls and creates community From the perspectives of its various protagonists white and black male and female young and old we watch as Fayton comes to deal with the charged issues of race feminism southern traditions and the unforeseen changes wrought by economics and technology What Gets Into Us is a powerful story cycle that resonates as deeply as a classic novel Moira Crone is the author of the novel Period of Confinement and two collections of short stories Four of her stories have appeared in New Stories from the South The Year's Best This collection includes her novella The Ice Garden which won the 2004 William Faulkner Wisdom Prize

Corpus Christi Bret Anthony Johnston, 2007-12-18 From an acclaimed and award winning young writer comes an intensely moving debut collection set in the eye of life's storms In Corpus Christi Texas a town often hit by hurricanes parents children and lovers come together and fall apart bonded and battered by memories of loss that they feel as acutely as physical pain A car accident joins strangers linked by an intimate knowledge of madness A teenage boy remembers his father's act of sudden and self righteous violence A hurricane party reunites a couple whom tragedy parted And in an unforgettable three story cycle an illness sets in profound relief a man's relationship with his mother and the odd shifting fidelity of truth to love Told in fresh lyrical voices and taut inventive styles these narratives explore the complex volatility of love and intimacy sorrow and renewal and expose how often these experiences feel like the opposite of themselves From the woman whose young son's uncanny rapport with snakes illuminates her own missed opportunities to the man confronting his wife and her lover in a house full of illegal exotic birds all the characters here face moments of profound decision and recognition in which no choice is clearly or completely right Writing with tough humor deep humanity and a keen eye for the natural environment Bret Anthony Johnston creates a world where cataclysmic events cut people loose from their regular lives floating and spiraling away from where we had been the day before Corpus Christi is an extraordinarily ambitious debut It marks the arrival of an important exquisitely talented voice to American fiction
