Sourcebook of Rehabilitation and Mental Health Practice David P. Moxley, John R. Finch, 2006-04-11 We live in a day and age in which many fields come together to define new ones and out of these newly defined areas come innovative practices and emergent ways of thinking The Sourcebook on Rehabilitation and Mental Health Practice documents one of these new fields one formed by the coalescence of rehabilitative and mental health services and employment Only recently have human service practitioners policy makers and administrators recognized that there is a growing synergy among these areas once separated by great gulfs of differences in culture perspectives and values and technologies It is not happenstance that rehabilitation mental health and employment are becoming increasingly integrated in contemporary human services There is considerable interest in work in contemporary society although different values and perspectives mediate this interest For people with disabilities an interest in work often comes from deep frustration from not having ready access to work and from not having enough of it to facilitate an acceptable quality of life or independent living Some people find work to be a source of problems that negatively affects their functioning They find the workplace stressful and unsupportive or they feel that work exacts too much from them reducing their quality of life and setting into motion numerous negative personal effects Beck 2000

Jewish Culture in Early Modern Europe Richard I. Cohen, Natalie B. Dohrmann, Elchanan Reiner, Adam Shear, 2014-12-31 David B Ruderman's groundbreaking studies of Jewish intellectuals as they engaged with Renaissance humanism the Scientific Revolution and the Enlightenment have set the agenda for a distinctive historiographical approach to Jewish culture in early modern Europe from 1500 to 1800 From his initial studies of Italy to his later work on eighteenth century English German and Polish Jews Ruderman has emphasized the individual as a representative or exemplary figure through whose life and career the problems of a period and cultural context are revealed Thirty one leading scholars celebrate Ruderman's stellar career in essays that bring new insight into Jewish culture as it is intertwined in Jewish European Ottoman and American history The volume presents probing historical snapshots that advance refine and challenge how we understand the early modern period and spark further inquiry Key elements explored include those inspired by Ruderman's own work the role of print the significance of networks and mobility among Jewish intellectuals the value of extraordinary individuals who absorbed and translated so called external traditions into a Jewish idiom and the interaction between cultures through texts and personal encounters of Jewish and Christian intellectuals While these elements can be found in earlier periods of Jewish history Ruderman and his colleagues point to an intensification of mobility the dissemination of knowledge and the blurring of boundaries in the early modern period These studies present a rich and nuanced portrait of a Jewish culture that is both a contributing member and a product of early modern Europe and the Ottoman Empire As director of the Herbert D Katz Center for Advanced Judaic Studies at the University of Pennsylvania Ruderman has fostered a community of scholars from Europe North America and Israel who work in the widest range of areas that touch on Jewish culture He has worked to make Jewish studies an essential element of mainstream humanities The essays in this volume are a testament to the haven he has fostered for scholars which has and continues to generate important works of scholarship across the entire spectrum of Jewish history
