My Unbreakable Spirit:

Chilco Daniela Catrileo, 2025-07-15 A near future tale about love life and friendship in a world that's falling apart Chilco is the name of Pascale's home island It is also the Mapudungun word for fuchsia a word that evokes tropical lushness witness the deep greenness of the forest Pascale's partner Marina grew up in the vertical slums of Capital City a place scarred by centuries of colonialism and now the ravages of feckless developers Every day the couple fear a sinkhole will open up and take with it another poor neighbourhood another raft of desperate refugees from the hinterlands the indigenous the poor who are toiling for an all-consuming machine that is devouring the earth from beneath their feet When they finally flee the collapsing city to live in Chilco are they escaping from the crushing weight of centuries of colonial repression that have eroded indigenous memories language and culture or are they merely stepping into a twisted lush new version of it From her first days in this place where she's supposed to feel safe and at home Marina can't avoid the feeling that everything is decaying around her there is a smell of putrefaction in the air that no one except her can detect there are seismic rifts that the political cruelties of the times have opened up in her own relationship with Pascale and she is haunted by insistent memories of her past In Chilco Daniela Catrileo's baroque tropical jeremiad the wounds of capitalism and empire inflict themselves on the person and on the land but linger most devastatingly in language and memory Indigenous Mapudungun and Quechua words history and cosmology form the chorus to this tropical fever dream of life love death and friendship

Dissensuous Modernism Allyson C. DeMaagd, 2022-02-22 Placing women writers at the center of the sensory and technological experimentation that characterized the modernist movement Dissensuous Modernism shows how women of the era challenged gendered narratives that limited their power and agency and waged dissent through their radical sensuous writing Allyson DeMaagd critiques an overemphasis among modernist writers and generations of researchers on the masculine senses of sight and sound shifting the conversation toward the feminine senses of smell taste and touch These senses long considered lower were explored by writers such as H D Mina Loy Virginia Woolf and Elizabeth Bowen as DeMaagd demonstrates through detailed close readings of their lesser studied novels DeMaagd's analysis shows how these women incorporated technology in their work to reunify the senses or to draw attention to the destructive disunity of the senses highlighting the subversive potential of sensory integration Dissensuous Modernism illuminates how modernist women writers breached the sensory borders society erects between men and women heteronormativity and queerness ability and disability technology and nature and human and nonhuman It elevates diverse embodied experiences and illuminates the pivotal role of women in modernist sensory thought Alone with My Heart Rain Pebble, 2010-09 The Troubles Sometimes the troubles of others reflect upon us We must remember it is their troubles not ours Sometimes the evils of the world reflects like a ray of light through a window pane Sometimes we slip but remember to stand up on your feet Brush your shoulders off and keep on keeping on In these hard times people need a word of encouragement Readers can
