Myth And Politics In Ancient Near Eastern Historiography:

Myth and Politics in Ancient Near Eastern Historiography Mario Liverani, 2007-06 The essays included in this volume analyze important historical texts from various regions of the Ancient Near East The distinguished Italian historian Mario Liverani suggests that these historiographical texts were of a true historical nature and that their literary forms achieved their intended results Liverani focuses on two central themes in these texts myth and politics There is a close connection Liverani finds between the writing of history and the validation of political order and political action History defines the correct role and behavior of political leaders especially when they do not possess the validation provided by tradition Historical texts he discovers are more often the tools for supporting change than for supporting stability Liverani demonstrates that history writing in the Ancient Near East made frequent use of mythical patterns wisdom motifs and literary themes in order to fulfill its audience's cultural expectations The resulting nonhistorical literary forms can mislead interpretation but an analysis of these forms allows the texts sociopolitical and communicative frameworks to emerge

L. Crouch, 2010-01-13 The monograph considers the relationships of ethical systems in the ancient Near East through a study of warfare in Judah Israel and Assyria in the eighth and seventh centuries BCE It argues that a common cosmological and ideological outlook generated similarities in ethical thinking In all three societies the mythological traditions surrounding creation reflect a strong connection between war kingship and the establishment of order Human kings military activities are legitimated through their identification with this cosmic struggle against chaos begun by the divine king at creation Military violence is thereby cast not only as morally tolerable but as morally imperative Deviations from this point of view reflect two phenomena the preservation of variable social perspectives and the impact of historical changes on ethical thinking The research begins the discussion of ancient Near Eastern ethics outside of Israel and Judah and fills a scholarly void by placing Israelite and Judahite ethics within this context as well as contributing methodologically to future research in historical and comparative ethics Syria-Palestine in The Late Bronze Age Emanuel Pfoh, 2016-02-22 Syria Palestine in the Late Bronze Age presents an explicitly anthropological perspective on politics and social relationships An anthropological reading of the textual and epigraphic remains of the time allows us to see how power was constructed and political subordination was practised and expressed Syria Palestine in the Late Bronze Age identifies a particular political ontology native to ancient Syro Palestinian societies which informs and constitutes their social worlds This political ontology based on patronage relationships provides a way of understanding the political culture and the social dynamics of ancient Levantine peoples It also illuminates the historical processes taking place in the region processes based on patrimonial social structures and articulated through patron client bonds Is This Not The Carpenter? Thomas L. Thompson, Thomas S. Verenna, 2017-09-19 The historicity of Jesus is now widely accepted and hardly questioned by most scholars But this assumption disarms biblical texts of much of their power by privileging an historical interpretation which effectively sweeps aside much theological speculation and allusion Furthermore the assumption of historicity gathers further assumptions to it shaping the interpretation of texts both denying and adding subtext Scholars are now faced with an endless array of works on the historical Jesus and few question what has been lost through this wide spread assumption of historicity Is This Not the Carpenter presents a very valuable corrective a literary rereading of the New Testament Cities and the Shaping of Memory in the Ancient Near East Ömür Harmanşah, 2013-03-18 This book investigates the practice of constructing cities in the ancient Near East bringing together architecture and cultural history
