Adrienne Leigh McEvoy, 2011-08 The joke is that all the prostitutes go on vacation when the philosophers come to town The reason that the other conventioners do it philosophers just talk about it And talk about sex and love and friendship is what the contributors to this volume do They talk and argue split hairs and clarify all trying to advance our understanding of this most interesting practice of the human species Some of the best minds on three continents from four nations and eighteen of the United States discuss such topics as adultery commitment cross dressing gender politics date rape family friendship friends as lovers gayness love marital pluralism marriage prostitution religiously motivated anti queer sentiments same sex marriage seduction and self respect Rather than preach participants probe our attitudes and practices involving these issues with the aim of better understanding the broad range of sexual practices of our species The result is a collection of stimulating essays that can enliven class discussions as well as provide guidance for the sexually perplexed The work is accessible to readers from high school through college and beyond For Love or Money Nancy Folbre, 2012-09-06 As women moved into the formal labor force in large numbers over the last forty years care work traditionally provided primarily by women has increasingly shifted from the family arena to the market Child care elder care care for the disabled and home care now account for a growing segment of low wage work in the United States and demand for such work will only increase as the baby boom generation ages But the expanding market provision of care has created new economic anxieties and raised pointed questions Why do women continue to do most care work both paid and unpaid Why does care work remain low paid when the quality of care is so highly valued How effective and equitable are public policies toward dependents in the United States In For Love and Money an interdisciplinary team of experts explores the theoretical dilemmas of care provision and provides an unprecedented empirical overview of the looming problems for the care sector in the United States Drawing on diverse disciplines and areas of expertise For Love and Money develops an innovative framework to analyze existing care policies and suggest potential directions for care policy and future research Contributors Paula England Nancy Folbre and Carrie Leana explore the range of motivations for caregiving such as familial responsibility or limited job prospects and why both love and money can be efficient motivators They also examine why women tend to specialize in the provision of care citing factors like job discrimination social pressure or the personal motivation to provide care reported by many women Suzanne Bianchi Nancy Folbre and Douglas Wolf estimate how much unpaid care is being provided in the United States and show that low income families rely more on unpaid family members for their child and for elder care than do affluent families With low wages and little savings these families often find it difficult to provide care and earn enough money to stay afloat Candace Howes Carrie Leana and Kristin Smith investigate the dynamics within the paid care sector and find problematic wages and working conditions including high turnover inadequate training and a pay penalty for workers who enter care jobs These conditions have consequences poor job quality in child care and adult care also leads to poor care quality In their chapters Janet Gornick Candace Howes and Laura Braslow provide a systematic inventory of public policies that directly shape the provision of care for children or for adults who need personal assistance such as family leave child care tax credits and Medicaid funded long term care They conclude that income and variations in states policies are the greatest factors determining how well and for whom the current system works Despite the demand for care work very little public policy attention has been devoted to it Only three states for example have enacted paid family leave programs Paid or unpaid care costs those who provide it At the heart of For Love and Money is the understanding that the quality of care work in the United States matters not only for those who receive care but also for society at large which benefits from the nurturance and maintenance of human capabilities As care work gravitates from the family to the formal economy this volume clarifies the pressing need for America to fundamentally rethink its care policies and increase public investment in this increasingly crucial sector

Speaking the Truth in Love Daniel R. Berger, 2007-01-01 Approaching public communication from a liberal arts point of view Speaking the Truth in Love provides a distinctly Christian perspective of rhetoric Written and oral rhetoric are interwoven throughout the text Two foundational ideas control the majority of the text The first is from Plato's Phaedrus as stated by Paul in Ephesians 4 15 speaking the truth in love The second is from the Apostle Peter in 1 Peter 4 11 if anyone speaks he should do it as one speaking the very words of God The spiritual responsibility of communicating truth in accordance with the nature of God especially the virtue of love is an awesome privilege and opportunity Sound content spoken or written eloquently with charisma will enable words to have a maximum impact The text is designed to be a culminating learning experience for undergraduate communication programs or as an introductory text for graduate programs involving public communication Beginning with a philosophy of language meaning and interaction argument is built against secular deconstructive thought where everyone has a different truth based on language Alongside philosophy we explore ethics and theology from an evangelical perspective Following this a brief history outlines rhetorical thought from pre testament classics to today Based upon these ideas we take a closer look at communication theory as it relates to public communication Finally the text addresses the practice of both written and oral communication

Mongoven,2009-07-13 Once upon a time civic virtue described an ethic of political involvement for all citizens As American democracy evolved however the public and private spheres separated The latter became domesticated and disengaged from public life by an ideology based on gender and a disinterested love of neighbor Private passion was to be isolated from public reason private love from public justice But it need not be so Drawing on examples of ordinary heroes Ann Mongoven argues for a transformed civic virtue that articulates just love passionate care for fellow citizens as such By connecting theory to practice Mongoven dramatizes the challenges raised through tangible political examples and lets ordinary heroes suggest the path toward civic renewal

Hearings United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare,1961 Conscience and Love in Making Judicial Decisions Alexander Nikolaevich Shytov,2013-03-14 THE CONSCIENCE OF JUDGES AND APPLICA NON OF LEGAL RULES The book is devoted to the problem of the influence of moral judgements on the result of judicial decision making in the process of application of the established positive law It is the conscience of judges that takes the central place in the research Conscience is understood in the meaning developed in the theory of Thomas Aquinas as the complex capacity of the human being to make moral judgements which represent acts of reason on the question of what is right or wrong in a particular situation The reason why we need a theory of conscience in making judicial decisions lies in the nature of the positive law itself On the one hand there is an intrinsic conflict between the law as the body of rigid rules and the law as an living experience of those who are involved in social relationships This conflict particularly finds its expression in the collision of strict justice and equity The idea of equity does not reject the importance of rules in legal life What is rejected is an idolatrous attitude to the rules when the uniqueness of a human being his well being and happiness are disregarded and sacrificed in order to fulfil the observance of the rules The rules themselves are neither good or bad What makes them good or bad is their application

Love, Human and Divine Edward Collins Vacek, 1994-04-01 Although the two great commandments to love God and to love our neighbors as ourselves are central to Christianity few theologians or spiritual writers have undertaken an extensive account of the meaning and forms of these loves Most accounts in fact make love of God and love of self either impossible or immoral Integrating these two commandments Edward Vacek SJ develops an original account of love as the theological foundation for Christian ethics Vacek criticizes common understandings of agape eros and philia examining the arguments of Aquinas Nygren Outka Rahner Scheler and other theologians and philosophers He defines love as an emotional affirmative participation in the beloved's real and ideal goodness and he extends this definition to the love between God and self Vacek proposes that the heart of Christian moral life is loving cooperation with God in a mutually perfecting friendship
