Winkler,2012-11-15 In an American society both increasingly diverse and increasingly segregated the signals children receive about race are more confusing than ever In this context how do children negotiate and make meaning of multiple and conflicting messages to develop their own ideas about race Learning Race Learning Place engages this question using in depth interviews with an economically diverse group of African American children and their mothers Through these rich narratives Erin N Winkler seeks to reorient the way we look at how children develop their ideas about race through the introduction of a new framework comprehensive racial learning that shows the importance of considering this process from children s points of view and listening to their interpretations of their experiences which are often quite different from what the adults around them expect or intend At the children s prompting Winkler examines the roles of multiple actors and influences including gender skin tone colorblind rhetoric peers family media school and especially place She brings to the fore the complex and understudied power of place positing that while children s racial identities and experiences are shaped by a national construction of race they are also specific to a particular place that exerts both direct and indirect influence on their racial identities and ideas Race, Education, and Citizenship Sin Yee Koh,2017-01-04 Transnational skilled migrants are often thought of as privileged migrants with flexible citizenship This book challenges this assumption by examining the diverse migration trajectories experiences and dilemmas faced by tertiary educated mobile Malaysian migrants through a postcolonial lens It argues that mobile Malaysians culture of migration can be understood as an outcome and consequence of British colonial legacies of race education and citizenship inherited and exacerbated by the post colonial Malaysian state Drawing from archival research and interviews with respondents in Singapore United Kingdom and Malaysia this book examines how mobile Malaysians make sense of their migration lives and contextualizes their stories to the broader socio political structures in colonial Malaya and post colonial Malaysia Showing how legacies of colonialism initiate facilitate and propagate migration in a multi ethnic post colonial migrant sending country beyond the end of colonial rule this text is a key read for scholars of migration citizenship ethnicity nationalism and postcolonialism Ethnicity, Race, and Nationality in Education N.
