Race Social Revolution:

Revolutionaries to Race Leaders Cedric Johnson, The Black Power movement represented a key turning point in American politics Disenchanted by the hollow progress of federal desegregation during the 1960s many black citizens and leaders across the United States demanded meaningful self determination The popular movement they created was marked by a vigorous artistic renaissance militant political action and fierce ideological debate Exploring the major political and intellectual currents from the Black Power era to the present Cedric Johnson reveals how black political life gradually conformed to liberal democratic capitalism and how the movement s most radical aims the rejection of white aesthetic standards redefinition of black identity solidarity with the Third World and anticapitalist revolution were gradually eclipsed by more moderate aspirations Although Black Power activists transformed the face of American government Johnson contends that the evolution of the movement as a form of ethnic politics restricted the struggle for social justice to the world of formal politics Johnson offers a compelling and theoretically sophisticated critique of the rhetoric and strategies that emerged in this period Drawing on extensive archival research he reinterprets the place of key intellectual figures such as Harold Cruse and Amiri Baraka and influential organizations including the African Liberation Support Committee the National Black Political Assembly and the National Black Independent Political Party in postsegregation black politics while at the same time identifying the contradictions of Black Power radicalism itself Documenting the historical retreat from radical democratic struggle Revolutionaries to Race Leaders ultimately calls for the renewal of popular struggle and class conscious politics Cedric Johnson is assistant professor of political science at Hobart and William Smith Colleges

Revolutions of race Robert Vaughan,1860 Revolutions of Race in English History Robert Vaughan,1860 Race, Revolution, and the Struggle for Human Rights in Zanzibar G. Thomas Burgess, Ali Sultan Issa, Seif Sharif Hamad, 2009 Zanzibar has had the most turbulent postcolonial history of any part of the United Republic of Tanzania yet few sources explain the reasons why The current political impasse in the islands is a contest over the question of whether to revere and sustain the Zanzibari Revolution of 1964 in which thousands of islanders mostly Arab lost their lives It is also about whether Zanzibar s union with the Tanzanian mainland cemented only a few months after the revolution should be strengthened reformed or dissolved Defenders of the revolution claim it was necessary to right a century of wrongs They speak the language of African nationalism and aspire to unify the majority of Zanzibaris through the politics of race Their opponents instead deplore the violence of the revolution espouse the language of human rights and claim the revolution reversed a century of social and economic development They reject the politics of race regarding Islam as a more worthy basis for cultural and political unity From a series of personal interviews conducted over several years Thomas Burgess has produced two highly readable first person narratives in which two nationalists in Africa describe their conflicts achievements failures and tragedies Their life stories represent two opposing arguments for and against the revolution Ali Sultan Issa traveled widely in the 1950s and helped introduce socialism into the islands As a minister in the first revolutionary government he became one of Zanzibar s most controversial figures responsible for some of the government s most radical policies After years of imprisonment he reemerged in the 1990s as one of Zanzibar s most successful hotel entrepreneurs Seif Sharif Hamad came of age during the revolution and became disenchanted with its broken promises and excesses In the 1980s he emerged as a reformist minister seeking to roll back socialism and authoritarian rule After his imprisonment he has ever since served as a leading figure in what has become Tanzania s largest opposition party As Burgess demonstrates in his introduction both memoirs trace Zanzibar s postindependence trajectory and reveal how Zanzibaris continue to dispute their revolutionary heritage and remain divided over issues of memory identity and whether to remain a part of Tanzania The memoirs explain how conflicts in the islands have become issues of national importance in Tanzania testing that state s commitment to democratic pluralism They engage our most basic assumptions about social justice and human rights and shed light on a host of themes key to understanding Zanzibari history that are also of universal relevance including the legacies of slavery and colonialism and the origins of racial violence poverty and underdevelopment They also show how a cosmopolitan island society negotiates cultural influences from Africa the Middle East Asia and Europe Race, Class, and Power Leo Kuper, 2017-07-05 Examining in detail the apparently inexorable polarization of society in such countries as Rwanda Algeria and South Africa the author questions whether current theories correctly explain the past or offer adequate guides for the future In their place he puts forward an alternative neo Durkheimian view of the possibility of non violent revolutionary change based on the development of such social and cultural continuities as already exist within each plural society But he warns that this is an age of passionate commitment to violence in which vicarious killers abound in search of a Vietnam of their own The aim of this groundbreaking and challenging book is to create theoretical perspectives in which to view the racial conflict of plural societies Written in the turbulent early 1970s the book demonstrates the inadequacy of then prevailing views such as Marxist interpretations of racial conflict as class struggle and the Fanon a priori rejection of non violent techniques of change which Kuper holds responsible for the acceptance of what he calls the platitudes of violence The book concludes with more personal sections focusing on the author s struggles with the then prevailing South African society critiques of that and censorship of his attempts to make these public In the light of subsequent changes in South Africa many decades later this book serves not only as an important work of political sociology but as a personal testament to the fight against racism in South Africa Leo Kuper was professor of sociology and director of the African Studies Center at the University of California Los Angeles A South African by birth he was one of the first writers on genocide as well as other aspects of African studies and urban sociology His major book Genocide Penguin 1981 remains in print The Leo Kuper Foundation is a non governmental organization dedicated to the eradication of genocide through research advice and education It was created in Washington DC in 1994 following the death of Leo Kuper with the aim of improving measures to prevent genocide The main area of work for the past five years has been in support of the creation of an International Criminal Court Troy Duster is director at the Institute for the History of the Production of Knowledge New York University

French Literary Fascism David Carroll,2021-01-12 This is the first book to provide a sustained critical analysis of the literary aesthetic dimension of French fascism the peculiarly French form of what Walter Benjamin called the fascist aestheticizing of politics Focusing first on three important extremist nationalist writers at the turn of the century and then on five of the most visible fascist intellectuals in France in the 1930s David Carroll shows how both traditional and modern concepts of art figure in the elaboration of fascist ideology and in the presentation of fascism as an art of the political Carroll is concerned with the internal relations of fascism and literature how literary fascists conceived of politics as a technique for fashioning a unified people and transforming the disparate elements of society into an organic totalized work of art He explores the logic of such aestheticizing as well as the assumptions about art literature and culture at the basis of both the aesthetics and politics of French literary fascists His book reveals how not only classical humanism but also modern aesthetics that defend the autonomy and integrity of literature became models for xenophobic forms of nationalism and extreme cultural forms of anti-Semitism A cogent analysis of the ideological function of literature and culture in fascism this work helps us see the ramifications of thinking of literature or art as the truth or essence of politics The Inner Life of

Race and Identity in Hispanic America Patricia Reid-Merritt, Michael S.

Rodriguez,2020-04-03 This book offers a historical and comparative overview of the evolution of racial classifications in the United States Latin America and the Caribbean The Hispanicization of America is precipitating a paradigm shift in racial thinking in which race is no longer defined by distinct characteristics but rather is becoming synonymous with ethnic cultural identity Traditionally assimilation has been conceived of as a unidirectional and racialized phenomenon Newly arrived immigrant groups or longstanding minority indigenous populations were Americanized in confining their racial and ethnic natures to the private sphere and adopting in the public sphere the cultural mores norms and values of the dominant cultural racial group In contrast the Hispanicization of America entails the horizontal assimilation of various groups from Spanish speaking countries throughout the Western Hemisphere and Caribbean into a pan ethnic Hispanic Latino identity that also challenges the privileged position of whiteness as the primary and exclusive referent for American identity Instead of focusing on one Hispanic group ethnic identity or region this book chronicles the development of racial identity across the largest Hispanic groups throughout the United States

Race and Authority in Urban Politics David Greenstone,Paul E. Peterson,1976-08 In this penetrating book the authors provide a systematic empirical analysis of an important public policy issue citizen participation in the Community Action Program of the Johnson administration's War on Poverty This Phoenix edition includes a new introduction in which the authors explicate the most important themes in their analysis In a series of lively chapters Greenstone and Peterson show how the coalitions that formed around the community action question developed not out of electoral or organizational interests alone but were strongly influenced by prevailing conceptions of the nature of authority in America The book stresses the way in which both machine and reform structures affected the ability of minority groups to organize effectively and to form alliances in urban politics It considers the wide ranging critiques made of the Community Action Program by conservative liberal and radical analysts and finds that all of them fail to appreciate the significance and intensity of the racial cleavage in American politics
