Seapower As Strategy Navies And National Interests:

Seapower as Strategy Norman Friedman, 2001 A noted defense analyst and naval weapons expert lays out the roles of navies and naval strategy in the twenty first century Drawing upon historical examples Norman Friedman first explains how and why naval strategy differs from other kinds of military strategy and then provides a sense of the special flavor of a maritime or naval approach to national security problems The various uses of navies are described and illustrated by extended case studies covering the last quarter millennium Friedman presents these observations in the context of U S post Cold War security concerns and concepts He explains how and why the United States currently espouses a maritime strategy and argues that navies are likely to regain a dominant position due to changes both in their own technology and in air and ground forces He urges countries with the appropriate geographical and economic advantages namely the United States the United Kingdom Japan and Australia to use their inherent maritime leverage Rare among books on naval strategy this work combines an examination of the vital role of coalition partners especially those with significant ground forces with a comprehensive survey of relevant technology and the way that strategy can be reflected in the design of an evolving fleet The author is known for his ability to explain modern technology to lay audiences and his book is suitable for all those interested in public policy questions as well as national security professionals and students of strategy The book s publication at a time of potential change in U S national strategy only reinforces its value as a document worthy of study Seapower Geoffrey Till, 2004 At the beginning of the 21st century much has remained the same in naval terms but much has changed Geoffrey Till s study is an exploration of how change will impact upon the world s navies Security Studies in a New Era of Maritime Competition Jonathan D. Caverley, Peter Dombrowski, 2023-06-06 How do two conventionally powerful nuclear armed but commercially oriented great powers reliant on sea lanes and global maritime infrastructure engage in a long term strategic rivalry When do such competitions lead to crisis instability and even war This book presents a research agenda using a variety of methods to explore this unique competitive environment for China and the United States The most likely great power friction points today are located at sea Any shots fired between China and the United States will likely be between navies and air forces rather than armies While much security studies understandably concentrates on land forces basic concepts such as the importance of territory the offense defense balance technological competition economic warfare and crisis stability do not comfortably apply to maritime competition The chapters in this volume consider the use of naval power including blockades naval diplomacy fleet engagements and nuclear escalation across the spectrum of global politics and international conflict The volume encourages applying the many classic approaches of security studies to this high stakes relationship while considering maritime conflict as distinct from other forms such as land and nuclear that have traditionally occupied the field This work will be of great interest to students of strategic studies international relations maritime security and Asian American politics The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Security Studies The

Tan, 2010-10-18 Since the crucial maritime battles that were fought during the Second World War in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and the post war period which saw a naval standoff between a vast US navy and a growing Soviet navy the focus of international maritime power has changed Major maritime powers have deployed warships aircraft carriers and heavy land forces around the globe for purposes of diplomacy such as in maintaining far flung alliances for deterrent purposes such as in the Taiwan Straits for warfighting such as in its crucial support roles in recent conflicts in Afghanistan and both Gulf Wars and for complex emergencies such as tsunami and earthquake rescue in Indonesia and Pakistan Increasingly maritime power is employed in counter terrorism such as in joint patrols counter terrorism exercises and in intercepting ships suspected of carrying weapons of mass destruction The Politics of Maritime Power is an exploration of the contemporary facets of maritime power particularly as an instrument of the state in the post Second World War era This reference volume is divided into four parts with chapters exploring various aspects of modern maritime power written by maritime experts a series of maps which show major maritime zones a glossary which contains

Building the Tatmadaw Maung Aung Myoe, 2009-01-22 Ever since Myanmar regained her independence in January 1948 the Tatmadaw Myanmar Armed Forces has been crucial in restoring and maintaining law and order It is one of the most important institutions in Myanmar politics Various aspects of the Tatmadaw have been studied The most notable area of study has been the political role of the military This study looks at the organizational development of the Myanmar armed forces It analyses four different aspects of the Tatmadaw military doctrine and strategy organization and force structure armament and force modernization and military training and officer education It sets out security perceptions and policies charting developments in each phase against the situation at the time and also notes the contributions of the leading actors in the process Since early 1990s the Tatmadaw has implemented a force modernization programme This work studies rationales and strategy behind the force modernization programme and examines the military capabilities of the Tatmadaw Drawing extensively from archival sources and existing literature this empirically grounded research argues that while the internal armed security threat to the state continues to play an important role it is the external security threat that gives more weight to the expansion and modernization of the Tatmadaw since 1988 It also argues that despite its imperfections the Tatmadaw has transformed from a force essentially for counter insurgency operations into a force capable of fighting in limited conventional warfare the Indian Ocean Region Dennis Rumley, Sanjay Chaturvedi, Mat Taib Yasin, 2016-03-31 First published in 2007 this book focuses on the security of sea lanes of communication It was a joint publication between the Maritime Institute of Malaysia MIMA and the Indian Ocean Research Group IORG and is an important book for three particular reasons First it takes a step forward in identifying key policy themes that can be applied to interstate cooperation around the Indian Ocean Region IOR Second the particular theme discussed is not only central to the economic well being of Indian Ocean countries but also to many of the world's most important trading states and finally the various discussions within the book raise a host of issues to which regional as well as non regional policy makers should give serious consideration Elements of Deterrence Erik Gartzke, Jon R. Lindsay, 2024 Global politics in the twenty first century is complicated by dense economic interdependence rapid technological innovation and fierce security competition How should governments formulate grand strategy in this complex environment Many strategists look to deterrence as the answer but how much can we expect of deterrence Classical deterrence theory developed in response to the nuclear threats of the Cold War but strategists since have applied it to a variety of threats in the land sea air space and cyber domains If war is the continuation of politics by other means then the diversity of technologies in modern war suggests a diversity of political effects Some military forces or postures are most useful for winning various kinds of wars Others are effective for warning adversaries of consequences or demonstrating resolve Still others may accomplish these goals at lower political cost or with greater strategic stability Deterrence is not a simple strategy therefore but a complex relationship between many ends and many means This book presents findings from a decade long research program on cross domain deterrence Through a series of theoretical and empirical studies we explore fundamental trade offs that have always been implicit in practice but have yet to be synthesized into a general theory of deterrence Gartzke and Lindsay integrate newly revised and updated versions of published work alongside new work into a holistic framework for understanding how deterrence works or fails to work in multiple domains Their findings show that in deterrence all good things do not go together Naval Modernisation in South-East Asia Geoffrey Till, Jane Chan, 2013-08-15 This edited volume analyses the naval arms race in South East Asia and reviews the content purposes and consequences of the naval policies and development of the main countries of the region The rise of naval capability in the countries of the Asia Pacific Region is increasingly recognised as a major indicator of the rise of Asia and its increasing importance in the world's political economic and strategic future Most coverage focusses solely on the navies of the big four the US China India and Japan however the region's other navies though much smaller are significant too Given the current focus on the South China Sea and the Obama administration's pivot to Asia naval development in South East Asia is of particular relevance This book first identifies the issues involved in defence acquisition in this area It then goes on to establish some templates of naval modernisation as a means of assessing the policies of individual countries in the region by looking at the naval policies of the big four Finally the general issue of naval modernisation in South East Asia is illustrated through a more detailed examination of some of the major issues common to all countries of the area These include the defence industrial perspective specific examinations of submarine and surface ship acquisition processes and a review of the balance to be struck between naval and coastguard forces in the area This book will be of much interest to students of naval power maritime security South East Asian politics strategic studies and IR in general
