A FOUR-SEASON
GUIDE TO PATTERNING
BIG BULLS

Have elk hunting never brought you racing emotions? The bull charges, ready to charge off with his head in the air and his hooves in the air. The antlers are in the air. The bull has other things on his mind. The only way to know what he's thinking is to be there when he's out there, when his head is in the air and his hooves are in the air.

The behavior and subsequent hunting strategies depend on many factors, including the time of year, the size of the herd, and the weather. The weather is a factor, and the weather is a factor. The weather is a factor, and the weather is a factor.

THE PRE-RUT

Most hunting seasons begin around September 1 and end with the end of the season. The season is a long one, and the season is a long one. The season is a long one, and the season is a long one. The season is a long one, and the season is a long one.

ELK BEHAVIOR During the season, male elk are in a state of high alert. They are in a state of high alert, and they are in a state of high alert. They are in a state of high alert, and they are in a state of high alert. They are in a state of high alert, and they are in a state of high alert.
