Love Sex And Identity:

Sexuality and Identity Leslie J. Moran, 2017-11-30 Born in the late nineteenth century sexuality is a relatively new category within the human sciences in general and law and society scholarship in particular Despite its novelty it is now a central category through which we understand ourselves both as individuals and as members of communities This volume offers a collection of essays selected to reflect the ever widening horizons and diverse methodologies of law and society scholarship on sexual and identity in law The essays offer an insight into some of the key themes and recent developments in this body of work Each in different ways offers an evaluation of the nature meaning and effects of sexuality thereby providing a critical evaluation of the politics of sexual identity as it appears in and through the law LoveSex Cabby Laffy, 2018-05-08 This book looks at how our brains minds bodies and emotions interact to create our experience of sexuality and how we can create a sense of sexual self esteem and a nutritious sexual diet for ourselves As the author notes in her Introduction we think and talk about sex as something we do rather than sexuality being something that we have and being sexual as something that we are We talk little about feeling sexual or the emotional and relational reasons for sexual desire about the fact that it is usually an other that we want to be sexual with Our focus seems to be on how much sex we can have rather than how we want to express ourselves sexually This book challenges the cultural commodification of sex and sexuality and encourages the reader to experience being sexual rather than doing sex or looking sexy This is crucial to our development of sexual self esteem particularly in an era of ubiquitous online pornography Love, Sex, and Identity, 1972

Edward II and a Literature of Same-Sex Love Michael G. Cornelius, 2016-10-21 The narrative retellings of the life reign and death of the English King Edward II reigned 1307 1327 present a unique opportunity for scholars of sexuality in the early modern era This is because the works of authors like Christopher Marlowe Michael Drayton Sir Francis Hubert Elizabeth Cary and Richard Niccols were all inspired by the public cultural memory fashioned from Edward's same sex love affair with Piers Gaveston As such each of them presents a particular representation of and a specific discourse about male male sexual relations in the Renaissance In other words what these works present is a concentrated body of literature about same sex love in the early modern era works that openly and frankly explore the possible origins of the love the reasons and causes for it works that explore the ramifications of male male romantic relationships works that explore the sexual politics and sociocultural dynamics of same sex romantic partnerships and works that describe and denote same sex love from an English Renaissance perspective This study looks at each of the major Renaissance texts about Edward II and examines the means through which each text understands and analyzes the nature of male male same sex love From Marlowe's crafting of a lover identity for Edward to Drayton's obsession with Marlowe's version of gay history from Hubert's Augustinian construction of Edward's nature to Cary's identification with the fallen king to Niccols inspired exemplum what each of these works demonstrates is that the love that dare not speak its name would not be silenced at least not in the case of Edward and Gaveston When one sees the name Edward II one also sees his same sex loves The correlation has become ingrained into our public recall of history Thus as far as the world is concerned Edward II was and ever will be the gay king

Place and Identity in the Lives of Antony, Paul, and Mary of Egypt Peter Anthony Mena, 2019-04-24 In this book Peter Anthony Mena looks closely at descriptions of space in ancient Christian hagiographies and considers how the desert relates to constructions of subjectivity By reading three pivotal ancient hagiographies the Life of Antony the Life of Paul the Hermit and the Life of Mary of Egypt in conjunction with Gloria Anzald's ideas about the US Mexican borderlands la frontera Mena shows readers how descriptions of the desert in these texts are replete with spaces and inhabitants that render the desert a borderland or frontier space in Anzald's terms As a borderland space the desert functions as a device for the creation of an emerging identity in late antiquity the desert ascetic Simultaneously the space of the desert is created through the image of the saint Literary critical religious studies and historical methodologies converge in this work in order to illuminate a heuristic tool for interpreting the desert in late antiquity and its importance for the development of desert asceticism Anzald's theories help guide a reading especially attuned to the important relationship between space and subjectivity
