Jankowiak,Robert L. Moore,2016-11-28 The family has long been viewed as both a microcosm of the state and a barometer of social change in China It is no surprise therefore that the dramatic changes experienced by Chinese society over the past century have produced a wide array of new family systems Where a widely accepted Confucian based ideology once offered a standard framework for family life current ideas offer no such uniformity Ties of affection rather than duty have become prominent in determining what individuals feel they owe to their spouses parents children and others Chinese millennials facing a world of opportunities and at the same time feeling a sense of heavy obligation are reshaping patterns of courtship marriage and filiality in ways that were not foreseen by their parents nor by the authorities of the Chinese state Those whose roots are in the countryside but who have left their homes to seek opportunity and adventure in the city face particular pressures as do the children and elders they have left behind The authors explore this diversity focusing on rural vs urban differences regionalism and ethnic diversity within China Family Life in China presents new perspectives on what the current changes in this institution imply for a rapidly changing society
