Excerpt from Mahan on Naval Warfare

Selections From the Writing of Rear Admiral Alfred T Mahan Germany had been consolidating the empire established in 1871 When William II ascended the throne in 1888 the ambitions of both ruler and nation were already turned toward colonial expansion and world power A German Admiralty separate from the War Office was established in 1889 Heligoland was secured a year later the Kiel Canal was nearing completion In England the Naval Defense Act of 1889 provided an increase of seventy ships during the next four years The rivals against whom she measured her naval strength were still France and Russia In the United States Congress in 1890 authorized three battleships the first vessels of this class to be added to the American navy During the following ten years the rivalry of nations was chiefly in commercial and colonial aggrandisement marked by the final downfall of Spain s colonial empire and a greatly increased importance attached to control of the sea

Alfred Thayer Mahan,1919 Russian Imperialism and Naval Power Nicholas Papastratigakis,2011-04-05 From 1904 1905 Russia and Japan were locked in conflict arising from rival imperial ambitions in the Far East Nicholas Papastratigakis offers an integrated analysis of Russian naval strategy in the decade before this Russo Japanese War in which the Russians suffered catastrophic defeat He seeks to determine the extent to which their defeat can be attributed to flawed Tsarist naval strategy in the region Rooted in rich primary resources from Russian French and British archives the book sheds new light on Russia s conduct in international affairs in the pre World War I era He places Russian naval strategy in the broader context of Russian military strategy at the turn of the century and of imperialism and navalism in general This book will be of enormous interest to scholars and students of naval military imperial and Russian history Architects of Continental

Seapower Jeremy Stocker,2020-10-01 This book describes and analyses two iconic figures in twentieth century naval history the German Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz and the Russian Admiral Sergei Gorshkov It examines the men what they thought and wrote about seapower the fleets they created and the strategic consequences of what they did More broadly it draws on the respective histories of the post 1897 Imperial German Navy and the post 1956 Soviet Navy to examine the continental bid for large scale seapower The work argues that both individuals built navies that did not and could not fulfil the objectives for which they were created Drawing on the legacies of both men the book also develops some wider ideas about the creation of large navies by continental states with cautionary lessons for today s emerging powers India and China Both admirals have received book length biographies but this is the first attempt at a comparative study and the first to draw broader strategic lessons from their respective attempts as continental navalists to challenge maritime states This book will be of much interest to students of naval history strategic studies and International Relations Catalog of Copyright Entries ,1918
