Software literacy involves a critical understanding of how the affordances and conceptual approaches of everything from operating systems creative apps and media editors to software based platforms and infrastructures work to inform and shape the ways we think and act. As a cultural artefact programming code plays a role in reproducing reinforcing and augmenting existing cultural practices as well as generating completely new coded practices. A proposed three tier framework for software literacy is the focus for a two year empirical investigation into how tertiary students become more literate about the nature and implications of software they encounter as part of their tertiary studies. Two case studies of software learning and use in university level engineering and screen and to those interested in how software impacts the workplace and leisure activities that make up our day to day lives.
