Africa and the Backlash Against International Courts Peter Brett,Line Engbo Gissel,2020-07-23 At the start of the twenty first century the story of Africa's engagement with international law was one of marked commitment and meaningful contributions. Africa pioneered new areas of law and legal remedies such as international criminal law and universal jurisdiction and gave human rights jurisdiction to a number of new international courts. However in recent years African states have mobilised politically and collectively against the regional courts and the International Criminal Court contesting these institutions' authority and legitimacy at national, regional and international levels. Africa and the Backlash Against International Courts provides the first comprehensive account of this important phenomenon bringing together original fieldwork, empirical analysis and a critical overview of the diverse scholarship on both international and African regional courts. Moving beyond conventional explanations, Brett and Gissel use this remarkable research to show how the actions of African states should instead be seen as part of a growing desire for a more equal global order, a trend that not only has huge implications for Africa's international relations but that could potentially change the entire practice of international law.

Sweden and National Liberation in Southern Africa Tor Sellström, 1999. In 1969 the Swedish parliament endorsed a policy of direct assistance to the liberation movements in Southern Africa. Sweden thus became the first Western country to enter into a relationship with organizations that elsewhere in the West were shunned as Communist or terrorist. This book, the first in a two-volume study on Sweden, the regional struggles for majority rule, national independence, traces the background to the relationship. Presenting the actors, factors behind the support to MPLA of Angola, FRELIMO of Mozambique, SWAPO of Namibia, ZANU ZAPU of Zimbabwe, ANC of South Africa, it addresses the question why Sweden established close relations with the very movements that eventually would assume state power in their respective countries. The second volume, later this year, will discuss how the support was expressed, covering the period from 1970 until the democratic elections in South Africa in 1994.

Sanctions and Honorary Whites Masako Osada, 2002-02-28. This study critically examines for the first time the unlikely friendship between apartheid South Africa and non-white Japan. In the mid 1980s Japan became South Africa's largest trading partner while South Africa purportedly treated Japanese citizens in the Republic as honorary whites under apartheid. Osada probes the very different foreign policy making mechanisms of the two nations and analyzes their ambivalent bilateral relations against the background of postcolonial and Cold War politics. She concludes that these diplomatic policies were adopted not voluntarily or willingly but out of necessity due to external circumstances and international pressure. Why did Japan exercise sanctions against South Africa in spite of their strong economic ties? How effective were these sanctions? What did the sensational term honorary whites actually mean? When and how did this special treatment begin? How did South Africa get away with apparently treating the Japanese as whites but not Chinese, other Coloureds, Indians and so forth? By using Japan's sanctions against South Africa and South Africa's honorary white treatment of the Japanese as key concepts, the author describes the development of bilateral relations during this unique era. The book also covers the fascinating historical interaction between the two countries from the mid 17th century onward. Africa and the North Ulf Engel, Gorm Rye Olsen, 2004-11-10 This volume discusses Africa's place in the international system examining how the Westphalian system in light of the impact of globalization and transnational networks continues to play a major role in the structuring of Africa's international Connecting South-South Communities Muhammed Haron, 2019-01-03 In addition to offering a comprehensive overview and fair insight over more than twenty five years into the relations between two South Middle Powers namely South Africa and Malaysia this book also discusses them within their respective regional structures and evaluates their respective diplomatic and commercial connections It also explores issues that have generally been neglected by International Relations specialists and in this regard it gives attention to cultural contacts that bring to the fore the critical role of non state actors in international affairs Since the ideas espoused by South Africa and Malaysia's political leaders are rooted in their specific national and broad regional philosophies the study also unpacks the notions of the African ways vis vis the Asian ways in maintaining and sustaining state to state relations within the two regions This book which uses Critical Theory as an appropriate framework that takes full cognisance of various developments in International Relations will be of interest to scholars and researchers in both the Social Sciences and the Humanities Britain's International Role, 1970-1991 Michael J Turner, 2010-10-06 How does one of the world's greatest powers preserve its status and influence when international conditions are unfavourable and its resources do not match its commitments This was Britain's burden in the 1970s and 1980s when the international order was transformed Much became unsettled and Britain had to adapt policy to suit new needs and opportunities Michael J Turner elucidates the efforts that were made to maximise Britain's role on those matters and in those parts of the world that were of special importance to British strategy prosperity and security He examines key decisions and their consequences and places British policy making in an international context suggesting that British leaders were more successful in preserving power and prestige on the world stage than has sometimes been appreciated U.S. Imprints on Sub-Saharan Africa, 1992 Bulletin of the Public Affairs Information Service Public Affairs Information Service, 1990 South Africa and Africa Adebayo Adedeji, 1996 The New Democratic South Africa led by the African National Congress is in the process of making fundamental choices Will South Africa's future be one where the needs of the majority population are at last addressed A future where its hegemonic relations with neighbouring states are restructured in an equitable direction A future where South Africa stands up for its own interests and those of Africa Or alternatively will the new leadership become distanced from its popular roots and pushed into a globalizing perspective which marginalizes its own immiserated classes and an immiserated continent These are some of the inter related questions which the contributors to this volume South African African and Western scholars and participants in the process explore In a context which portrays the current state of Africa's political economy and the legacy of apartheid within South Africa itself the political security and in particular economic dimensions of South Africa's present and possible future relations with the rest of the Continent are examined This book's wealth of concrete
