notion of duplicity as evil and illuminates the ways in which deception can also be understood as a adaptive response to the demands of living with others The book articulates the boundaries between unethical and adaptive deception demonstrating how some lies serve socially approved goals while others provoke distrust and condemnation Throughout the volume focuses on the range of emotions from feelings of shame fear or envy to those of concern and compassion that motivate our desire to deceive ourselves and others Providing an interdisciplinary exploration of the widespread phenomenon of lying and deception this volume promotes a more fully integrated understanding of how people function in their everyday lives Case illustrations humor and wit concrete examples and even a mock television sitcom script bring the ideas to life for clinical practitioners behavioral scientists and philosophers and for students in these realms
