Bianchi,2011-07-01 Bianchi s wide ranging book draws together insights from the social sciences the humanities and religion to establish a holistic framework for a spirituality of aging He argues that middle life and late adulthood present opportunities for turning inward for a deeper contemplative life within the context of active worldly endeavors This can also augur a reform of social relationships beyond individual development alone toward the creation of a more cooperative just society In this way physical decline is countered by a spiritual ascent He summons aging persons fortified with universal values and concerns gained from age and experience to return to the centers of decision making Throughout the author ponders such questions as personal power identity fear freedom contemplation sexuality the church faith suffering and hope In candid interviews older religious leaders reflect on their early value formation personal traumas choice of careers midlife transitions experiences of old age and the prospect of death In dwelling mainly on human spiritual dilemmas of the aging cycle Bianchi offers a strong clear message of hope one that stands against the tide of our culture which tends to shunt older people to the outer eddies of life s stream Aging as a Spiritual Journey is immensely

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1989 Psychological Perspectives of Helplessness and Control in the Elderly P.S. Fry, 1988-12-01 The past few years have witnessed widespread acceptance of the notion that few elderly individuals are willing to stand by silently in the process of growing and to relinquish whatever actual controls autonomy or control beliefs they had in the past Increasingly old age is viewed as the dynamics of growth in mastery control and self efficacy on the one hand and a relative decline in psychological and physical resources on the other It is the intent of this volume to communicate both aspects of these changes and to offer a comprehensive review of the cross fertilization of the field of gerontology and the psychology of reactance freedom and control Leading psychologists and social science researchers from the United States Canada and Europe give their views on the meaning and application of control related constructs having specific implications for the field of human aging They address themselves to one or more of the major themes issues or concerns which currently figure in discussions of control beliefs and control constructs as they apply to aging and old age Written primarily for scholars researchers and developmental theorists interested in the complexities and generativity of control constructs and their applications for the psychological well being of older adults the data and issues presented will be equally informative to gero psychologists and mental health professionals concerned with healthy adaptive functioning of the elderly Handbook of Mental Health and Aging James E. Siegler, Merrill F. Elias, 2012-12-06 It has been estimated that there are at least 2 500 000 adults 10% of the population above age 65 who are currently in need of some sort of mental health services Kramer Taube and Redick 1973 Other estimates are even higher e g Pfeiffer 1977 It is expected that this number will increase as the number of older adults increases over the next 40 years Probably less than 400 clinical psychologists are now provid ing services to this age group The number of elderly patients actually seen by these psychologists is very very small One national survey found that of 353 psychologists who reported that they had older clients only 495 individuals were seen for psycho logical testing and 1423 for psychotherapy in the one month just prior to the response Dye in press Assuming that the same in dividuals were not seen for both testing and therapy within the one month period a questionable assumption approximately 08% of the at least two and one half million older adults in need of psychological services are now being supplied with these services in some form or another Thus the need for increased involvement of clinical psychology with the aged is undeniable However few resources currently exist which will serve to increase the number of clinical psychologists trained to meet this need Probably less than 100 clinical psychologists living today have received any kind of formal graduate training in the clinical psychology of the aging Storandt 1977 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Dynamic Therapy of the Older Patient Wayne A.
