Northland: A 4,000-Mile Journey Along America's Forgotten Border Porter Fox,2018-07-03 Romantic urgent valuable and appealing as hell Andrew McCarthy New York Times Book Review Writer Porter Fox spent three years exploring 4 000 miles of the border between Maine and Washington traveling by canoe freighter car and foot In Northland he blends a deeply reported and beautifully written story of the region's history with a riveting account of his travels Setting out from the easternmost point in the mainland United States Fox follows explorer Samuel de Champlain's adventures across the Northeast recounts the rise and fall of the timber iron and rail industries crosses the Great Lakes on a freighter and traces the forty ninth parallel from Minnesota to the Pacific Ocean He weaves in his encounters with residents border guards Indian activists and militia leaders to give a dynamic portrait of the northland today wracked by climate change water wars oil booms and border security The American Reaper Gordon M. Winder,2016-04-01 The American Reaper adopts a network approach to account for the international diffusion of harvesting technology from North America from the invention of the reaper through to the formation of a dominant transnational corporation International Harvester Much previous historical research into industrial networks focuses on industrial districts within metropolitan centres but by focusing on harvesting a typically rural technology this book is able to analyse the spread of technological knowledge through a series of local networks and across national boundaries In doing so it argues that the industry developed through a relatively stable stage from the 1850s into the 1890s during which time many firms shared knowledge within and outside the US through patent licensing to spread the diffusion of the American style of machines to establishments located around the industrial world This positive cooperation was further enhanced through sales networks that appear to be early expressions of managerial firms The book also reinterprets the rise of giant corporations especially International Harvester Corporation IHC arguing that mass production was achieved in Chicago in the 1880s where unprecedented urban growth made possible a break with the constraints felt elsewhere in the dispersed production system It unleashed an unchecked competitive market economy with destructive tendencies throughout the transnational American reaper networks a previously stable and expanding production system This is significant because the rise of corporate capital in this industry is usually explained as an outworking of national natural advantage as an ingenious harnessing of science and technology to solve production problems and as a rational solution to the problems associated with the worst forms of unregulated competition that emerged as independent firms developed from small scale artisanal production to large scale manufacturers on their own and within the separate and isolated US economy The first study dedicated to the development and diffusion of American harvesting machine technology this book will appeal to scholars from a diverse range of fields including economic history business history the history of knowledge transfer historical geography and economic geography Catalogue of the Free Public Library, Sydney, 1876.

The world by hitchhiking Ludovic Hubler, A business school is everything but a hitchhikers training place Its main objective is to train tomorrow s business leaders and decision makers and prepare them for the work environment But Ludovic Hubler from Alsace in France a graduate of Strasbourg Business School chose to break with the traditional educational mould and do things differently When he obtained his Master s Degree at the age of 24 he believed that discovering the realities of the world was a necessary prelude to embarking on a professional career That s why on 1st January 2003 he started off on a tour of mankind that he likes to call his Life PhD His adventure lasted five years during which he travelled the world solely by means of hitch hiking in every conceivable form From boat hitching across the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans to ice breaker hitching to reach Antarctica to crossing the Sahara desert or passing through countries such as Colombia and Afghanistan Ludovic put his thumb to the test in all imaginable situations His experiences and meetings were vast and varied Among the most outstanding the Dalai Lama received him at his home in Dharamsala in India but equally interesting were the thousands of students from all walks of life with whom Ludovic shared his adventures on the road. A total of 5 years travelled spanning 106 000 miles and 59 countries, hundreds of lectures given and lifts from more than 1 300 people received give an idea of the extent and richness of the journey. More than recounting an extreme feat, this book traces an extraordinary human adventure where you're transported by the wind of freedom. A Literary History of the American West Western Literature Association (U.S.), 1987. Literary histories of course do not have a reason for being unless there exists the literature itself. This volume perhaps more than others of its kind is an expression of appreciation for the talented and dedicated literary artists who ignored the odds, avoided temptations to write for popularity or prestige and chose to write honestly about the American West, believing that experiences long known to be of historical importance are also experiences that need and deserve a literature of importance. The Congregationalist and Christian World, 1915
