Nutritional Anthropology Contemporary Approaches To Diet And Culture:

Nutritional Anthropology Norge W. Jerome, Randy F. Kandel, Gretel H. Pelto, American Anthropological Association, 1980 Abstract Nutritional states result from both biological and cultural forces The consideration of nutritional problems from a biocultural perspective comprises the field of nutritional anthropology Eleven papers are presented representing the efforts of researchers who have examined nutrition in this social context Their theoretical approach combines the nutritional and social sciences in investigations of the sociocultural cognitive and ecological aspects of food The methodology of nutritional anthropology is applied in a study of women s roles in rural Africa Human dietary adaptations in the evolution of human culture are investigated in a case study of 2 prehistoric populations The food patterns of a contemporary group demonstrates nutritional adaptation and cultural maladaptation Demographic effects of sex specific diets and nutritional correlates of economic microdifferentiation are examined Other topics deal with malnutrition diet and acculturation and health food movement Human Diet and Nutrition in Biocultural Perspective Tina Moffat, Tracy Prowse, 2010-12-01 There are not many areas that are more rooted in both the biological and social cultural aspects of humankind than diet and nutrition Throughout human history nutrition has been shaped by political economic and cultural forces and in turn access to food and nutrition has altered the course and direction of human societies Using a biocultural approach the contributors to this volume investigate the ways in which food is both an essential resource fundamental to human health and an expression of human culture and society The chapters deal with aspects of diet and human nutrition through space and time and span prehistoric historic and contemporary societies spread over various geographical regions including Europe North America Africa and Asia to highlight how biology and culture are inextricably linked Research Methods for Anthropological Studies of Food and Nutrition Janet Chrzan, John Brett, 2017-02-01 The dramatic increase in all things food in popular and academic fields during the last two decades has generated a diverse and dynamic set of approaches for understanding the complex relationships and interactions that determine how people eat and how diet affects culture These volumes offer a comprehensive reference for students and established scholars interested in food and nutrition research in Nutritional and Biological Anthropology Archaeology Socio Cultural and Linguistic Anthropology Food Studies and Applied Public Health Researching Food Habits Helen M. Macbeth, Jeremy MacClancy, 2004 The term Anthropology of Food has become an accepted abbreviation for the study of anthropological perspectives on food diet and nutrition an increasingly important subdivision of anthropology that encompasses a rich variety of perspectives academic approaches theories and methods Its multi disciplinary nature adds to its complexity This is the first publication to offer guidance for researchers working in this diverse and expanding field of anthropology Cultural Perspectives on Food and Nutrition Cynthia Roberts, 1992 Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies Ken Albala, 2013-05-07 Over the past decade there has been a remarkable flowering of interest in food and nutrition both within the popular media and in academia Scholars are increasingly using foodways food systems and eating habits as a new unit of analysis within their own disciplines and students are rushing into classes and formal degree programs focused on food Introduced by the editor and including original articles by over thirty leading food scholars from around the world the Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies offers students scholars and all those interested in food related research a one stop easy to use reference guide Each article includes a brief history of food research within a discipline or on a particular topic a discussion of research methodologies and ideological or theoretical positions resources for research including archives grants and fellowship opportunities as well as suggestions for further study Each entry also explains the logistics of succeeding as a student and professional in food studies This clear direct Handbook will appeal to those hoping to start a career in academic food studies as well as those hoping to shift their research to a food related project Strongly interdisciplinary this work will be of interest to students and scholars throughout the social sciences and humanities

The Handbook of Food Research Anne Murcott,Warren Belasco,Peter Jackson,2013-08-15 The last 20 years have seen a burgeoning of social scientific and historical research on food The field has drawn in experts to investigate topics such as the way globalisation affects the food supply what cookery books can and cannot tell us changing understandings of famine the social meanings of meals and many more Now sufficiently extensive to require a critical overview this is the first handbook of specially commissioned essays to provide a tour d horizon of this broad range of topics and disciplines The editors have enlisted eminent researchers across the social sciences to illustrate the debates concepts and analytic approaches of this widely diverse and dynamic field This volume will be essential reading a ready to hand reference book surveying the state of the art for anyone involved in and actively concerned about research on the social political economic psychological geographic and historical aspects of food It will cater for all who need to be informed of research that has been done and that is being done

Evolutionary Aspects of Nutrition and Health A. P. Simopoulos, Berthold Koletzko, 1999-07 The issues treated in this publication are brought together in this way for the first time For many of the chronic diseases familial predispositions are well established and there is good evidence for true genetic predisposition When Homo erectus emerged 1.7 million years ago humans existed as non cereal eating hunter gatherers It is on this basis that according to the hypothesis of the carnivore connection an insulin resistant genotype evolved to provide survival and reproductive advantages to populations adapted to a high meat low plant food low carbohydrate nutritional environment Cereal became the major source of calories and protein in the human diet only about 10 000 years ago Humankind has thus had little evolutionary experience to adapt to this new food type maladaptation being the consequence Moreover studies comparing energy expenditure in Western societies and during the Paleolithic period indicate a low level of physical activity not previously encountered in human history a state to which humans are not genetically adapted Together with the dietary changes this has led to a modern environment in which a number of individuals are prone to chronic diseases causing increases in non insulin dependent diabetes mellitus hypertension coronary artery disease cancer and obesity As a consequence the lifestyle approach for the prevention and management of these diseases is essential varying with national dietary patterns and national economy This publication will be of special interest to physicians geneticists nutritionists dieticians anthropologists food technologists food policy makers and individuals interested in personal and family health
